Throne Chairs Unused By King And Queen At Toronto

There were throne chairs, newly covered in red velvet, placed for the King and Queen before the Toronto city hall, but they did not use them. Instead, they remained standing at the front of the platform for the entire 15 minutes of the welcome ceremony, so that the massed thousands of their cheering subjects could see them well. This photograph, taken from the east, shows Their Majesties standing, with Mayor Ralph Day behind.

Queen Mary Hurt In Overturned Car As Truck Collides

Accident Second in Which She's Involved — Collision With Truck—Suffers Only From Shock—Otherwise Unhurt.

LONDON, May 23. — Queen Mary is "suffering from considerable bruising" from effects of an automobile accident this afternoon, and has been ordered "some days' complete rest," it was announced officially today.

The Queen's automobile was overturned in collision with a two-ton truck at Putney, a London suburb.

"Her Majesty Queen Mary is suffering from bruising and shock as the result of an accident this afternoon in which Her Majesty's car was overturned.

"Though the bruising is considerable and will need some days of complete rest, Her Majesty's general condition is this evening satisfactory.

"Signed: Stanley Hewett and Dawson of Penn."

It also was announced that a report of the accident and of the Queen's condition has been cabled in the King and Queen in Canada.

Physicians who attended her were Sir Stanley Hewett and Lord Dawson of Penn. Lord Dawson attended the late King George V.

SEVERELY SHAKEN

Queen Mary was shaken severely by the accident.

Within a few minutes of the accident, however, the Queen Mother, who reaches her 72nd birthday next Friday, was able to leave a doctor's office where she had been taken to rest and drove away in another car.

The accident was the second in which the Queen Mother has

PLAN TO LOWER ELECTRIC RATE TO BE STUDIED

Reduction In Power Prices Proposed By Alderman Ogilvie

City commissioners were instructed by city council Monday night to investigate and bring in a full report on the possibility of reducing electric light rates.

When commissioners asked that the finance committee consider an adjustment for electric ranges, Ald. J. H. Ogilvie urged that the committee also be advised as to the possibility of a complete downward revision.

"I believe a general reduction would result in increased gross profits to the city and I believe suburban districts, such as Jasper Place, should get a cut," Ald. Ogilvie said. "I used to think we should make it tough for people who moved outside the city to escape taxes, but that has had no result."

Ald. D. K. Knott asked that reports on rates in other cities be obtained. He felt that suburban districts eventually would find it economical to come into the city corporation.

USE NATIONAL CREDIT AIM OF DUNNING BILL

Minister Moves Second Reading Central Mortgage Bank Measure

OTTAWA, May 23.—Hon. C. A. Dunning, finance minister, moved for second reading of the Central Mortgage Bank Bill in the House of Commons today. The bill contemplates a wholly government-owned bank, headed by the chief officers of the Bank of Canada.

Mr. Dunning said the bill provided for "the use of the national credit in the adjustment of mortgage indebtedness and in providing mortgage facilities for refinancing in future."

The finance minister explained that measure filled a need for reduction in mortgage load assumed many years ago under far more favorable circumstances than obtained today. The bill would affect all farm mortgages and urban mortgages up to $7,000.

It provided that participating

Their Majesties On Second Major Stage Canadian Adventure

King, Queen Sleep Aboard Moving Train For First Time in Dominion—Pass Through Big-Rock Country

By A. E. FULFORD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ABOARD THE ROYAL PILOT TRAIN, EN ROUTE WEST, May 23.—The Royal train headed into the west today on the second major stage of the Royal adventure in Canada. As the King and Queen slept all night aboard a moving train for the first time in this country, the 12-car palace slipped through northern Ontario and turned westward for Fort Arthur, Fort William, Winnipeg, Regina, Calgary, Vancouver, Edmonton, and all the other places they are to visit on the far side of the Great Lakes divide.

Their Majesties awakened to find themselves moving through the heavily-wooded, big-rock country that gave Paul Bunyan, legendary figure of the woods and logging camps, to the world of fiction.

This morning the train passed through Chapleau, source of many a yarn of Bunyan, the giant lumberjack who—the stories say—planted all the trees in the north country. At the camp-night entertainments they tell of Paul and his big blue ox Babe, which measured 42 axe handles and a plug of chewing tobacco between the horns.

Bunyan, it is said, was drawn from life—from the life of a Paul Bunyan, bearded and bellicose, who raged among the Queen's troops in the North-West rebellion. From that picturesque figure, the smoke of tobacco pipes and the fancies of men far from home have built Paul into the frame of an inventor, an orator and an industrialist whose feats surpassed those of Hercules.

These men who tell of Bunyan and his ox, those restless piers of the north-country trades, were among the hundreds who flocked to little stations along the Canadian Pacific railway main line today, anxious for a glimpse of

Small Boy Retrieves Queen's Handkerchief: Asks For Possession

OTTAWA, May 23.—One of Queen Elizabeth's chiffon handkerchiefs will be framed and kept in nine-year-old Dickie Braden's bedroom as a souvenir, if Her Majesty's Lady-in-Waiting, Lady Katherine Seymour, will consent.

Dickie was on the driveway Saturday when the Royal car bearing the King and Queen passed him, and the Queen waved to him. In doing so, she either dropped her handkerchief or threw it to him as a souvenir, and Dickie decided to find out by writing a letter to Lady Seymour.

62 U.S. NAVY MEN TRAPPED IN SUBMARINE

Undersea Craft "Squalus" Down In 240 Feet Of Water

PORTSMOUTH, N.H., May 23.—The United States submarine Squalus and a crew of 62 men were "trapped" in 240 feet of water about five miles off the narrow New Hampshire coast today when the ship went into a deep sea dive without closing one of her vital sea valves.

Approximately five hours after the accident authorities at the navy yard here expressed an opinion that majority of the men aboard were safe so far and that with good luck all could be saved.

The Squalus, a new craft equipped with all the latest safety devices, should be able to "hold out" for approximately 24 hours, navy officers said. Only one part of the ship was flooded—the crew's quarters in the after part of the vessel and part of the engine room.

Former Edmonton Man Is Killed In Airplane Crash

OGDEN, Utah, May 23.—The bodies of C. J. Gardiner, passenger, formerly of Edmonton, and William R. Duck, pilot, killed when a privately-owned airliner crashed in a mountain meadow near Coalville, Utah, were taken to Oakland, Calif., by train today.

The ill-fated craft, en route from Chicago to Oakland, crashed into trees Sunday evening when Duck attempted a forced landing. Duck, 35, of Oakland, and Gardiner, 37, who recently had lived in Chicago with his family, were crushed in the wreckage.

Mrs. Duck, 32, wife of the pilot; Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Sullivan, Oak Park, Ill.; Mrs. Gardiner, the victim's wife, and their daughter, Carol Ann, four, escaped with minor injuries.

King Hears From London Injury To Mother Not Serious

16-Minute Stop Made at Northern Ontario Railway Town—2,000 Persons Welcome Their Majesties

By R. K. TAYLOR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SCHREIBER, Ont., May 23.—King George told Reeve Sheehan at a civic reception in this northern railway town today he had heard from London that the injuries to his mother, Queen Mary, were not serious.

"I was very sorry to hear about the injury to the Queen Mother," Sheehan told The King as he and Queen Elizabeth were tendered a short reception on their way to Port Arthur.

"Thank you very much," The King replied. "I am glad to be able to say that the injury was quite slight, nothing at all to be worried about."

Their Majesties arrived here at 2:45 p.m. E.D.T. and left 16 minutes later for the lakehead, where they are scheduled to arrive at six o'clock this evening.

KING SMILING

The King was smiling throughout the stop and did not appear to be worried. Passengers on the Royal train were unable to say whether The King had telephoned London when he received word of Queen Mary's accident.

Half an hour before the Royal Train reached Schreiber, Their Examination by X-ray at the Royal Alexandra hospital disclosed the skull fracture. Those attending him said Tuesday afternoon his condition was "good."

King, Queen Great Human Characters

TORONTO, May 23.—Premier Mitchell Hepburn, "so enthusiastic I don't know what to say," described the King and Queen as "great human characters," following their departure from Toronto last night.

"There are no words really to describe what I feel," he said. "I know that they are the right type to preside over British democracy and to rule the British Empire, particularly in these trying times."

Stirred by emotion following day-long association with Their Majesties, Premier Hepburn spoke of their "great simplicity, power of understanding and graciousness at all times."

"They were game to the end," he added. "They were tired out but they stuck with it to the finish. At the platform they could have gone into their coach. We knew they were tired and must have been aching for rest. But they stood out until the train had gone far down the track."

Autographed photographs of the King and Queen, presented to them by Their Majesties, are cherished possessions of Mr. and Mrs. Hepburn.

WARSAW HAS NO OBJECTION 3-POWER PACT

Assent To British Alliance With Russia Would Remove Obstacles

LONDON, May 23—Poland was said by informed quarters today to have informed Great Britain she had no objection to the three-power mutual aid pact which the government is reported likely to sign with Russia and France.

These quarters said Colonel Joseph Beck, Polish foreign minister, had given the Polish views of the proposals to Sir Howard Hennard, British ambassador in Warsaw, and that Sir Howard had reported them directly to Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax at Geneva.

Polish assent to a British alliance with Russia would remove one of the obstacles in the way of such a pact.

TO OUTLINE VIEWS

The Polish views were expected to be outlined to a cabinet meeting tomorrow when the foreign secretary will submit recommendations based upon his talks at Geneva.

Several members of the cabinet, including Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, and Sir Samuel Hoare, the home secretary, have been represented as opposed to a hard and fast alliance with Moscow.

GREATER IMAGINATION

Among other things, the editorial said, "what is really needed is greater imagination and more frequent experiments in trying out all possibilities" for cabinet membership.

Captioned "Tired Ministers," the editorial took its theme from the restored health of Viscount Runciman, who acted as Britain's unofficial mediator during early stages of the dispute of the former Czecho-Slovak republic with its Sudeten German minority. Lord Runciman has just returned from a holiday.

The Times dealt at length with the value of the services of Lord Halifax and Prime Minister Chamberlain, continued:

INDISPENSABLE

"The truth is that several members of the government know in their hearts they would be all the more efficient for getting the last cabinet had) at the present moment. Whatever may be thought about Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Halifax it is a patent fact that not every tired minister is indispensable."

It was believed that Lord Halifax would urge the cabinet to approve an agreement with Russia quickly. Both Turkey and France were reported anxious to bring Russia into the Anglo-French front.

2 Celebrated Liberals

Hepburn-Mackenzie King Feud Fades

Get Along Just Fine

TORONTO, May 23—Those celebrated Liberals who are political enemies, Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario, beamed amiably at each other Monday under the influence of the Royal visit to Toronto.

While the King and Queen were awaited at Woodbine Park, they stood talking. After Their Majesties arrived, they walked together to their places in the rear of the Royal box.

When the seat next to the King was vacated, the Prime Minister moved down. After a moment, the King nodded assent to a question by the Prime Minister. Mr. Mackenzie King rose, returned to the rear of the box and motioned Mr. Hepburn to the seat next to the King. There Mr. Hepburn watched the running of the King's Plate.

Not long ago, when the Prime Minister announced his decision to accompany the Royal party on the entire tour, Mr. Hepburn commented, "cheap publicity."

TRAFFIC IS CONTROLLED BY PLANE

TORONTO, May 23. — Traffic was kept flowing smoothly through Toronto streets Monday by airplane control despite the throngs that jammed every thoroughfare to greet the King and Queen. A traffic officer flown by a Royal Canadian Air Force pilot kept watch on traffic, reporting by short-wave telephone to the airport at Toronto Island. His reports in turn were telephoned to city police headquarters and communicated to scout cars which rushed to any spot where a traffic jam threatened.

Under these circumstances, a 1,500-word editorial published by the Times attracted much attention.

PRODUCTION IN TURNER VALLEY BOOSTED AGAIN

CALGARY, May 23.—An Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board order today boosted daily production of Turner Valley crude from 22,500 to 25,000 barrels.

Since January of this year, the field allowable has been increased steadily from a low of 10,000 barrels daily due to demand for oil. The new schedule brings output within 3,000 barrels of the record 28,000 barrels allowed during harvest time last fall.

Royal 38 well, under the proration method, is allowed 816 barrels daily, the largest producer of 72 crude wells.

Woman Is Honored

Mrs. Sophia Louise Pattison, widow of Private John Pattison, who won the Victoria Cross at Vimy Ridge, will be presented to Their Majesties by the Duke of Williams, seven Alberta men who won the victory award. Her husband was killed on the battlefield on June 3, 1917.

Royal Train

Their Majesties. All last night little groups could be seen about the stations as the lean silver and blue palace sped north and west. They were content with only the knowledge that the King and Queen had passed through.

The train stopped to take on fresh fish at Chapleau for Their Majesties' breakfast. It also planned to coincide with the run along the White river. The flash of foaming, white streams in the rapids and the austere beauty of tall hills and trees were to present new vistas in the wilderness-panorama that is the Royal tour.

KEEN DELIGHT

The King and Queen took keen delight last evening in the beauties of the Muskoka Lakes district as their train raced through the lake-dotted country toward new wonders. As darkness fell they turned to song of the many books in their train library.

For the first time in the week since they arrived in Canada, their Majesties were able to sit back and relax for more than a few minutes. Until now their day has been a succession of public functions.

10-MINUTE STOP

Stops at communities along Lake Superior's shore, notably at Schreiber, midway between Sudbury and Port Arthur, lay ahead today. But the Schreiber stop will be only for 10 minutes and others will be shorter, and at each one there will be almost complete lack of formality.

Late today the train will pull into Port Arthur and for an hour and a half Their Majesties will be shown the twin lakehead cities of Port Arthur and Fort William, hub of the lumbering, shipping and grain elevator industries of central Canada.

The tremendous interest the Royal visit has aroused was exhibited nowhere so strongly in the east as at Sudbury early today. At 6 o'clock a.m., 8,000 persons stood in silence while the train rolled through, although the King and Queen got small much-needed sleep. No stop was scheduled at Sudbury, but district residents lined the tracks hours before the train was due anyway.

King Hears

Majesties learned from a Canadian Press news bulletin of the accident. Their own injuries were delivered several times daily to the Royal Train.

NATURAL BEAUTY PRAISED

Chatting with dignitaries of the little town, whose citizens jammed the railway station to cheer Their Majesties, the King and Queen praised the district's rugged, natural beauty and its wonderful pine decorations, the gaily-dressed citizens and the pleasant sunshine.

The warm, brilliant weather was a pleasant change for the Royal visitors, who earlier spent 36 minutes at White River, where the temperature was only two degrees above freezing.

There were no top hats or formal clothes among the crowd of dignitaries here and the King appeared on the platform in an ordinary lounge suit. Sixteen of the town's 1,000 citizens, headed by Reeve and Mrs. Sheehan, were presented.

BEST "CITY" CLOTHES

The town's population was swelled to more than 2,000 as nearby villages were abandoned and their residents flocked here for a look at Their Majesties. All were dressed in their best "city" clothes and the only northland color among the crowd was lent by three United States Indians.

Grain brokers from Duluth, Minn., they delayed their departure on a canoe trip to see the Royal Party. The men—W. L. Bridley, A. J. Mull and K. S. Bagley—came to the station dressed in bright mackinaws, khaki pants and high boots.

Royal Visit Would Delight New Zealand

WELLINGTON, May 23. — New Zealand "would be delighted to make the necessary arrangements" if it were possible for the King and Queen to visit the dominion, Prime Minister Michael Savage said today.

C.I.O. Strike Has 24,000 Men Idle

DETROIT, May 23—A strike of Congress of Industrial Organizations —affiliated United Automobile Workers left upwards of 24,000 men idle last night. The strike closed seven plants of the Briggs Manufacturing Company and threatened operations in other factories.

The strike followed a break-down in negotiations for renewal of a contract that expired a week ago.

Credit

lending companies would write off all arrears of interest in excess of two years. Mortgage debtors would be relieved of the excess indebtedness above 80 per cent of the property value. The debtor would also be relieved of limiting future interest rates to five per cent and an adjustment in the length of the mortgage term.

The Dominion government would share with the mortgage companies half the loss in writing off interest arrears and total value. To that extent the Dominion would issue three per cent 20-year bonds.

ACCEPT CONDITIONS

To the extent these companies participate in future financing under the plan, they would be required to accept conditions set down by the Mortgage Bank.

The bill allowed any province to avoid interference with mortgages contracts adjusted from their own debt adjustment legislation. Previously, however, this provisional credit was made available if it could not be drive under conditions of hardship or threaten the provincial governments to impair the security.

SHARPLY CRITICIZED

The bill had been sharply criticized in the financial press and the minister said he did not know to what extent the financial interests spoke for the mortgage companies which might be asked to co-operate.

"I am inclined to the view," he said, "after some 25 years study of the mortgage business in one way or another, that we can deal with it in this manner, and that the way to move must be through the channel of voluntary action contemplated by this bill."

NO COMPULSION

No compulsion would be applied to any province or any mortgage company because the federal parliament could not deal with civil rights under mortgage contracts. It would only make the national credit available "in terms of public need" for the alleviation of a great national problem.

"In the four corners of this bill," said the minister, "we have an opportunity to remedy very largely the confused, difficult and bothersome situation which exists in respect to mortgage credit all across Canada."

Conservative Leader Manion said the bill would not help the borrower or anybody but the lender. It was true if mortgage companies cooperated it would benefit certain individuals borrowers but this information was the companies would not co-operate unless the bill was whipped into better shape. It was criticized by the press at the session.

"This legislation is dearer to me than anything brought before the house this session," Mr. Dunning said.

Rene Pelletier (S.C., Peace River) declared the sympathy of the Social Credit group with the purpose of the legislation but they rather agreed with Dr. Manion that there was no reason a bill of such importance should be brought down at this time. Such a bill required thorough examination by the banking and commerce committee.

NOT DESIRABLE

Mr. Pelletier said cancellation of provincial debt legislation was not desirable because of the impossibility of paying mortgage interest with 70-cent wheat and generally reduced earnings. He also contended that the bill invaded the provincial jurisdiction.

In support of his contention that this aspect of the bill was unsound, Mr. Pelletier cited a series of court judgments on various recent bills which were held invalid because provincial jurisdictions were infringed. The present bill was not bankruptcy legislation, which was admitted to be federal matter, but its whole tendency was to keep out of bankruptcy.

He felt more information should be obtained and the question of its constitutional validity should be referred to the Supreme Court of Canada.

"We in Alberta feel a great need for adjustment in interest rates," he said, "but until such measures take into consideration the ability to pay, we should proceed with caution. Otherwise, we merely give the mortgage companies a temporary respite."

He moved, accordingly, that the bill be referred to the banking and commerce committee.

As discussion ended for the day, Mr. Dunning announced the bill would be referred to the banking committee after it received second reading but he saw no reason why the committee discussion should take a month as some critics suggested.

Andres Demands Atonement For Slaying Of Nazi

DANZIG, May 23.—The party newspaper Danziger Vorposten published today a speech by Nazi leader Helmuth Andres declaring the slaying of Nazi Von Der Ploe at Kalthof Sunday must and would be atoned and that the choice of methods lay with Chancellor Hitler.

Andres spoke to a mass protest meeting of 3,000 in the village of Tigenhof last night.

Air Pageant May Be Suspended

LONDON, May 23.—The air ministry was reported today to be considering suspending its annual air pageant because of the danger of revealing defence secrets. An air force officer challenged a German assistant attache making notes at Heston during this year's pageant last Saturday, but allowed him to continue when identity was established, since an embassy official enjoys diplomatic immunity.

CONVICTS IN PRISON GET KING'S MEAL

KINGSTON, Ont., May 23.—Prisoners at Kingston penitentiary had a special dinner last night in honor of the Royal Visit to Kingston. Steak and ice cream were the unexpected features of the meal.

IRISH FLASH BEATS WALKER CUP GOLF ACE

HOYLAKE, Eng., May 23—Jim Bruen, sensational Irish 19-year-old, played well within himself to eliminate Leonard Crawley, English Walker cupman, by 4 and 2 in the British amateur golf championship today.

Bruen was even 4's for the 16 holes of his match against the Englishman, whose beautiful swing could not make up for his poor putting.

In another vital second-round match Alex. Kyle, Scottish member of last year's Walker cup team, defeated another Scot, Same McKinlay, 4 and 3.

The defending champion, Charley Yates, of Atlanta, Ga., won the 16th and 17th holes to defeat Donald Cameron, wealthy Scottish internationalist, 2 and 1. With him into the third round went Dick Chapman, Greenwich, Conn., with a 4 and 3 victory over M. W. Budd, of England.

PROPOSAL FOR ARAB - JEWISH STATE BACKED

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 23.—The House of Commons today approved the government's proposal to establish an independent Arab-Jewish state in the Holy Land.

After two days of acrimonious debate on Palestine policy, the house voted 268 to 179 for its support.

Previously the House rejected by a vote of 281 to 181 a Labor amendment which contended that the government's proposals should have been submitted to the mandates commission of the League of Nations before parliament committed itself.

In the House of Lords the government motion approving the Palestine policy carried without division after Lord Snell's Labor amendment was withdrawn.

Scots Must Pay Heavy Duty On Kilts They Wear

OTTAWA, May 23—Kilts will continue under customs tariff—of 37½ per cent for another year at least—it appeared today, despite efforts of Tom Reid, bagpipe-playing member of parliament for New Westminster.

Finance Minister C. A. Dunning noted a plant in Vancouver now was making kilts, and Mr. Scott-men had informed him. "It is my sincere hope that the industry in Vancouver will flourish so that it will be able to supply kilts to all the people in Canada who desire to wear the things," he said.

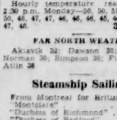

But it wasn't as simple as that. Mr. Reid held up a book with color plates of 114 different tartans. No little plaid could be expected to provide that selection, he argued.

CLOSER FORM MUTUAL AID PACT LIKELY

GENEVA, May 23. — Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax was reliably reported today to have decided to champion in tomorrow's cabinet meeting the speediest closer form of mutual aid pact among Great Britain, France and Russia than British hitherto has found acceptable.

Lord Halifax' decision was said by informed observers to have been reached after last-minute roundrobin talks among delegates of the three great powers here for the league council session.

These informants said he had been influenced by Russia's refusal to consider any essential deviation from its insistence on comprehensive mutual assistance guarantees.

The influence of the French general staff, and especially of its chief, General Maurice Gustave Gamelin, probable generalissimo of French and British land forces in any major war, was said to have been thrown in favor of early conclusion of a pact.

Lord Halifax's talks in Geneva with Russian delegate, Ivan Maisky, and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet of France and the Polish, Turkish and Rumanian delegates were understood to have convinced them that the projected three-power combination should be concluded as quickly as possible.

ADVOCATED RECIPROCITY

(Prime Minister Chamberlain in the House of Commons has insisted that Britain always had advocated "reciprocity" in the mutual aid negotiations, but that "misunderstanding" had kept "a sort of veil or wall" between Russia and Britain.)

Informed persons said conversations which Lord Halifax began in Paris Saturday had prompted a decision to present the plan for a comprehensive three-power combination of the cabinet as the only possible way to obtain Russian support for the Anglo-French anti-aggression front.

FORCED INTO CONFLICT

French sources said that to all practical purposes Russia were attacked, Great Britain eventually would be forced into a conflict on the side of Soviet Russia. Likewise France is bound to aid Russia, not only by a French-Soviet pact but by her own interests, and would be forced into war with her.

Apart from paper promises, these sources said, the main thing to be sought in agreement among the three powers would be direct Anglo-Russian military and naval exchanges.

GENEVA, May 23.—League of Nations officials announced after a meeting of the committee charged with supervising affairs of Danzig today it had been decided to call the League high commissioner, Professor Charles Burkhardt De Reynolds back to the Free City.

Officials said the high commissioner would be instructed to make a report on the Danzig situation. The committee includes France, Great Britain and Sweden.

De Reynolds, a Swiss, has been absent from his post at Danzig and in Geneva since March 19. He has the power, on paper, to call for Polish troops to aid in keeping order in Danzig when he considers it necessary.

Poles are said to want him back in Danzig, where he could make such a request in case of trouble.

Immediate Break In Balkan Entente Reported Averted

BUCHAREST, May 23.—An immediate break in the Balkan Entente was reported reliably to have been averted in talks between foreign ministers Grigore Gafencu of Rumania and Alexander Cincar-Markovich of Yugoslavia.

First reports of Sunday conferences aboard a Danube river boat were that Yugoslavia would refrain, for the time being at least, from seeking to break the bonds which unite her with Rumania, Greece and Turkey in the Entente.

It was understood Stefanovic convinced the Yugoslav foreign minister to seek a way out of his country's ticklish position in regard to Germany and Italy who have been seeking to win her over to their axis.

Today's accident occurred in Putney, a west London suburb.

An eye-witness said the Royal limousine turned over when it collided with a truck.

A painter, working nearby, rushed to the car and placed a ladder against the upturned side, assisting Her Majesty to the ground.

CAR TURNED OVER

The eye-witness said the Royal car turned "completely over."

"The crash brought people running from their houses."

Another witness said the people "were horrified to see that the car which had turned over on its side was a Royal one."

Taken to a nearby doctor's home, she was found to be suffering from shock but otherwise not hurt. After treatment she emerged from the house and waved to a crowd which had waited anxiously outside. The crowd cheered.

She drove away in another automobile which had been summoned.

IS QUITE CALM

An official at Marlborough House, the Queen's official residence, said "we are informed that Her Majesty is not hurt."

The eye-witness said the Queen appeared to have "recovered greatly" when she left the doctor's house and "was quite calm."

"She acknowledged the relieved cheers of a crowd who heard of the accident and had been making anxious inquiries as to whether she had been badly hurt."

He said the Queen "looked very white and shaken, but maintained her composure wonderfully," when she was assisted to the doctor's office. "After a short time another royal car arrived and Queen Mary, with a lady in waiting who also had been badly shaken, was driven away."

Onlookers who saw Her Majesty arrive at Marlborough House sometime later the accident said "she seemed perfectly calm and all right."

ATTENDED BY DOCTOR

The Queen mother retired to her private apartments immediately upon reaching Marlborough House, where she was attended by her doctor.

Oscar Humphrey, the Queen's chauffeur since the death of King George V, was reported suffering from shock. The accident occurred as the Queen was returning from the Royal Agricultural Society's gardens at Wisley, Surrey.

TWO OTHERS HURT

In the car with the Queen at the time of the accident were Lady Constance Milnes-Gaskell and Lord Claude Hamilton. Lady Constance suffered a bruised arm and Lord Hamilton cuts on one hand.

Lord Hamilton, 49, is comptroller and treasurer in Queen Mary's household.

After the Queen had been driven to her Marlborough House residence it was learned she complained of slight pains but that which were believed to be due to bruising. She was authoritatively reported "bruised and badly shaken," but otherwise unhurt.

The front of the truck crashed into the rear wheel of the Queen's car, but only the radiator of the truck was damaged.

Queen Mary was helped from the damaged car to a nearby house, which proved to have been the home of a physician who died last week, Dr. H. S. Revell.

Some therefore received no medical attention until after she had been driven home from Putney. From the Revell house telephone calls were made to neighboring doctors, but none could be found at home.

Instructions were given for two Harley street specialists to attend the Queen at the Marlborough House when she returned.

CALGARY MAN SELLS HALF OF SWEEP TICKET

CALGARY, May 23.—Thomas McDowall, 67-year-old Calgary bank messenger, today sold half interest in his Irish sweepstake ticket on Blue Peter, favorite to win the Epsom Downs Derby tomorrow, for $18,000, he said.

McDowall, one of three Canadians to draw a ticket on the favorite, sold the share to a New York businessman who acted for old country interests.

If Blue Peter fails to run McDowall is assured approximately $15,000. But if Blue Peter wins he will receive $70,200.

The Calgarian used the nom-de-plume "Tom El Ba," on ticket QL-28381. The misitic words belong to an "Egyptian Echo, meaning 'Village of Trouble'," he said.

OPEN VERDICT IN DEATH OF CALGARY BABE

CALGARY, May 23.—An inquest jury last night returned an open verdict stating that five-months-old Betty Lou Holt died from "slow asphyxia due to hydrocyanic acid inhalation" as effect of occupying the Holt residence shortly after fumigation. The baby died Friday.

Mrs. Alford Severson and Archibald Birell, both of Calgary, testified they had told occupants of the house not to enter until 10 p.m. on the day of fumigation, Thursday May 18. George Holt, father, stated he had been given no warning and that he and his family moved in shortly after eight p.m.

The jury foreman, Sidney Mansfield, told Coroner Dr. George R. Johnson, after the verdict had been read, that the jury were of the opinion authorities should impress upon fumigation and should insist on stricter regulations governing permits for fumigation with issuance of licenses to fumigators.

CROPS RECEIVE WELCOME RAIN IN SOUTHLAND

Continuous and Heavy Rain Shows No Sign Of Letting Up

LETHBRIDGE, May 23—Crops throughout Southern Alberta were receiving abundant moisture as the general rainstorm which started in the city Monday morning and at some district points Sunday night continued today. This morning a continuous and heavy rain which fell most of the night showed no signs of letting up.

While at some points in the south precipitation was heavier, instruments at Kenyon Field weather observatory recorded .58 inches of rain in the 24 hours until 8.30 this morning. It Friday's storm the city obtained .24.

MOST TIMELY

Coming when it did the rain was most timely as district points were beginning to report urgent need of moisture after more than a month of drought. The present rain will complete germination and carry the crops along.

Added to Friday's storm, today's rain, all soaking into the soil, is joining up with the reserve moisture and crops will have enough moisture for some time. All seeding with the exception of a small percentage of coarse grains is completed.

RANGELANDS BRIGHTER

Hay meadows and rangelands are brightening up after showing signs of suffering drought a week ago in parts of the southeast, and both ranchers and farmers are jubilant.

Hatching of grasshopper eggs, which was beginning to occur in large numbers, has been halted by the storm and as a result of the moisture, cutworm damage is expected to be greatly reduced.

All celebrations and sports activities were faced with postponement throughout the south as the storm continued.

NASH GAINS FOURTH PLACE IN INDUSTRY

Factory sales of new Nash cars during the first quarter showed the highest percentage gain in the automobile industry, and were more than triple the average of the industry as a whole, according to figures just released by The Wall Street Journal.

Nash's factory sales during the quarter totalled 22,900 units, a gain of 186 per cent over the same period of last year, while total U.S. automobile production increased 57.8 per cent, the authoritative Journal's figures reveal.

The Journal estimated total factory sales of cars and trucks in the United States and Canada, including sales for export, for eight automobile companies for the three months ended March 31.

Nash during March also chalked up the highest registrations percentage gain in the industry—61 per cent over February—and climbed to ninth place among all individual makes, as compared with thirteenth place in 1938.

Canadians Get Out Their Finery

The most crowded social event of the Ottawa visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth so far was the great garden party on the lovely grounds of Government House. During their stay Their Majesties resided in this home of the governor-general.

BY THOMAS WAYLING
Bulletin Special Correspondent

OTTAWA, Canada, May 23 — When King George VI and Queen Elizabeth return to England, notations in the royal diary may remind them of some of the pleasures of their 6000-mile trek across the vast expanse of the Dominion of Canada.

In keeping with the simplicity and sincerity of the royal couple, Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King planned a schedule of entertainment to their liking. It will have touches of extreme formality, of course, but not too many.

* * *

But the King and Queen, who are intensely interested in the people and countries over which they rule, will spend a major part of their time meeting people and seeing the country.

The eyes of millions of Canadian women will follow the gracious and lovely Queen Elizabeth wherever she goes. She is young enough that her beauty and her clothes will be an inspiration to the debutantes, and mature enough that her poise and charm will light the fires of hope in those of her own generation.

". . . Queen Elizabeth . . is young enough that her beauty and her clothes will be an inspiration . . ."

Title-seekers are due for a disappointment. At the request of the Canadian government the King will not pass out any honors on his tour.

But the visit of royalty has had every debutante and dowager replenishing her wardrobe with a glittering assortment of evening gowns, and planning to capture an invitation to a royal party.

* * *

Attendance and seating at the royal dinners and receptions is governed by the Table of Preference, a Blue Book of rather inflexible nature. It starts with the governor-general, then lists the lieutenant governors, church dignitaries, the prime minister, the diplomatic corps, the cabinet, justices of the Supreme Court, senators, members of Parliament, provincial legislators and so on.

London Tailors Advised To Lower Waistlines of Trousers, Shorten Socks

LONDON, May 22—Joseph Kennedy, United States ambassador, advised English tailors Monday to lower the waistline of trousers and shorten socks and shirts.

He told a luncheon of the American chamber of commerce that Americans probably "Would like those fine English socks if they could get some that did not come up to their knees" and "They could also use some shirts that didn't come down to the same place, not to mention trousers which had their waistline where God made it on man and not in the general vicinity of the shoulder blades."

The editor of "Tailor and Cutter," trade journal of English tailors, said he regarded the ambassador's remarks as "Just a pleasant exaggeration."

"There are plenty of English socks that do not come up to the knees, but merely reach the calf," he said. "Perhaps Mr. Kennedy is accustomed to very short shirts and he might find himself much more comfortable if he wore English shirts.

"The point about trousers is that where braces are worn, as in England, it is an advantage to have them cut a little higher in the back than in the front."

Mr. Kennedy's advice was offered "without criticism" in a talk in connection with foreign trade week. His point was that neither United States nor British private enterprise was taking a full advantage of the Anglo-American trade agreement signed last November.

Roosevelt Bluntly Gives Notice There'll Be No Abandonment Of Plans

WASHINGTON, May 23. — President Roosevelt denounced critics of his economic program Monday night as "radicals" eager "to gamble" with the safety of the United States, and bluntly gave notice he would sanction no abandoning of administration "principles and objectives."

Addressing the Retailers' National Forum, the president asserted that if "so-called" business "deterrent taxes," such as the undistributed profits tax, are repealed, other taxes on business must be increased to replace revenues thus lost.

Said that while "the conservative attitude of this administration" hardly contemplates a permanent excess of government expenditures over receipts, "balancing the budget today, or even next year, is a pretty difficult if not impossible job."

Vigorously defended the administration policy of government spending and lending for the purpose of maintaining consumer purchasing power at a high level, with a statement consumer power "is the milk in the cocoanut of all business."

And said:—

"Today, with no danger of surplus of goods overhanging the market—just because we have tried to keep consumer purchasing power up to production—the nation is in an excellent position to move forward into a period of greater production and greater employment."

Repeatedly, the president referred to himself and his associates as the nation's conservatives, and to certain of his foes as the "radicals".

Some administration critics, he said, were "eager to gamble the safety of the nation and of our system of private enterprise on nothing more than their personal hunch that if government will just keep its hands off the economic system, customers will just happen."

Treaty Reaffirmed

LISBON, Portugal, May 23.—Premier Antonio De Oliveira Salazar yesterday reaffirmed Portugal's ancient alliance with Great Britain and criticized what he called "European treaty violators."

CROWN PAVING GETS CONTRACT ON CITY WORK

Contract for this year's paving program was awarded by city council to the Crown Paving and Construction Company, Limited, at a tender price of $187,931.50, at Monday night's meeting.

Only other tender was from the Columbia Bithulithic Limited, of Vancouver, at a price of $189,634.50.

"The city engineer was very pleased with the figure, as it is considerably lower than last year's prices," Commissioner R. J. Gibb told council.

The schedule of paving is as follows: 95 street from 101 avenue to 111 avenue, 99 street from 82 avenue to 83 avenue, 109 Street from 105 avenue to 107 avenue; 124 street from 107 avenue to 111 avenue; Fort Trail from 66 street to 129 avenue.

A submission on the use of Alberta bituminous sands from Fort McMurray for paving was submitted to council by F. S. Wright of the Edmonton Tax Research bureau. Comissioners were instructed by council to make a report on this.

New Zealand's Import Statute Ruled Invalid

WELLINGTON, N.Z., May 23.—Mr. Justice J. B. Callan of the New Zealand Supreme Court Monday ruled that Prime Minister Michael Savage's new import restrictions were invalid.

Commenting on the decision the Prime Minister said "whatever amendments are necessary to give effect to the original act and intentions will be made."

Toronto Keeps Up Fete After King, Queen Go

TORONTO, May 23.—Long after the King and Queen had gone, Toronto's citizens celebrated Their Majesties' one-day visit to Toronto last night.

The sky was lit up with fireworks set off in all the city's large parks. An estimated 30,000 persons saw the display in Riverdale park and 20,000 were at High Park. On Coxwell avenue a section of pavement was roped off and a street dance was held.

Broadside From All Directions Demands Lower Prices on Radios

OTTAWA, May 23. — A new broadside from all sections of the House of Commons against price differences between radios in Canada and United States Monday drew from finance minister C. A. Dunning assurance the government was doing everything possible to remedy that source of complaint.

"The government is anxious," Mr. Dunning said, "to see to it that the price of radios in Canada properly reflects Canadian conditions and does not involve profiteering such as caused my (radio) reference to the tariff board in the first place."

While the tariff board made its report on radios and radio tubes just as the budget was brought down a month ago, the board was continuing to examine the radio situation, he said.

The secretary of state, Hon. Fernand Rinfret, was investigating application of patent law to radio manufacture, especially as to its effects on prices, and Labor Minister Norman Rogers currently was having the question of a combine studied, the finance minister informed the house.

The radio issue came up as the house adopted a series of budget resolutions, and first readings of the appropriate bills, amending the customs tariff and excise in numerous instances.

QUINTS BACK HOME AGAIN: NOT SLEEPY

CALLANDER, Ont., May 23—Happy and not the least bit sleepy, the Dionne quintuplets arrived at Callander station at 9.27 p.m., E. D.T., last night, after their momentous visit to Toronto to meet the King and Queen.

The five little girls, chattering eagerly about the trip by special train, wanted to know right away when they would be going back to Toronto. But they were whisked away in automobiles to their beds in the Dafoe hospital.

The Dionnes were particularly pleased because the King and Queen spoke in French.

Mack Sennett is coming back into motion picture production. There's a good chance for a good custard pie baker.

Winnipeg, Gateway to The West, Ready to Welcome Royal Couple

By GEORGE FINLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG, May 23.—Gateway to the west, from where the pioneers took the long trail on the 1,000-mile trek across the prairies to the Rockies, Winnipeg is ready today to welcome the King and Queen.

Weeks of preparations ended, Manitoba's flag-bedecked capital city will be visited by Their Majesties Wednesday, Victoria Day, a holiday celebrated in the Dominion for 35 years in honor of Queen Victoria. From here the King will send a message to the Empire, a world-wide broadcast to his millions of subjects.

OTHERS PREPARED

Like Winnipeg, other western cities, Brandon, Regina, Calgary, Vancouver, Victoria, Edmonton and Saskatoon are prepared for the Royal Visit.

For more than eight hours, from the arrival of the silver-toned royal train at 10:30 a.m., a full program has been prepared for the Royal guests in Winnipeg. Today, the city is host to thousands of visitors, from rural Iowna, villages and farmsteads and from many parts of the United States and even far-off Mexico. They came by train, automobile, motor bus and some in luxurious airliners.

DISTRIBUTING CENTRE

From the industrial centres of eastern Canada, Their Majesties come to a city which has developed from early trading post days, through the building of a great grain-growing empire, into a modern metropolis, a distributing centre for the prairie west.

Pioneers who played a part in the development will meet the King and Queen. The first will be Hon. W. J. Tupper, Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba. Thirty-eight years ago, he met His Majesty's parents who came to Winnipeg as the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall. The King will meet others, veterans of the plains country, who attended receptions in honor of his parents in the west.

VIEW WHEAT LANDS

Before arrival in Winnipeg, the King and Queen will have their first view of the west's agricultural lands travelling through eastern Manitoba where first sprouts of the 1939 wheat crops are shooting through the earth to carpet the countryside in green.

Winnipeg presented a colorful setting last night Giant floodlights played on buildings and streets as the Union Jack and other flags of the Empire floated in a prairie breeze. Visitors tonight will view a Royal Welcome Week parade, a historic pageant, dating from old Fort Garry days. Rumbling ox-carts will make their way over the main throughfares of the city streets that but a half-century ago were muddy trails.

26-MILE DRIVE

Over the same route the King and Queen will drive on Victoria Day. There will be civic and provincial receptions, luncheon at Government House, preceded by the Empire broadcast, and in the afternoon a 26-mile motor tour through Winnipeg's parks and along Portage avenue—the Portage Trail, highway to the west of pioneer years.

At historic Fort Garry, where only the ivy-covered gates remain, P. Ashley Cooper, governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, late in the day will make a tribute payment to the King—the presentation of two Elk heads and two rare black Beaver pelts. It is a payment demanded under charter granted by King Charles II to the "Adventurers of England trading into Hudson's Bay" 269 years ago.

An hour before departure, Manitoba's ancient French-Canadian cathedral city, St. Boniface, will be visited. It is across the Red River from the Capital. The Royal train will leave Winnipeg at 7 p.m.

HOUSE TACKLES BILL TO SET UP MORTGAGE BANK

OTTAWA, May 23.—The House of Commons today tackled its last important bill of the session, Hon. Charles Dunning's measure to establish a central mortgage bank.

Reception the finance minister's bill receives on second reading will probably be a key to the length of time parliament will remain in session.

Yesterday the House made good progress by approving 6ll of Mr. Dunning's budget resolutions in committee of ways and means and voting some $50,000,000 in estimates for the departments of mines and resources and pensions and health.

The budget resolutions included the few tariff changes made this session, the lifting of the three-per cent excise from imports under the intermediate or lower rates which complies with a clause in the new United States trade agreement and exemption from income tax for industrial concerns launching new building or plant improvement programs.

Scenes From Royal Show

TORONTO, May 23.—A bed-ridden invalid for more than 11 years because of paralysis, Kathleen Michie, 21, of Toronto saw the King and Queen while lying on her stomach on a stretcher in Riverdale park yesterday. She is one of the few holders of the badge of fortitude, the Girl Guides' badge for courage.

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., May 23—Royal Engineers who arrived on the Fraser river in 1859 aboard the steamer Thames City from England will be represented by seven of their children at Queen's Park Stadium during the visit of the King and Queen here May 31.

VANCOUVER, May 23. — Boy Scouts who line the processional route of the King and Queen here May 29 have been instructed to carry two large sandwiches, four cookies and three dried prunes tied to their belts in a white handkerchief to sustain them while on duty.

VICTORIA, May 3.—King George and Queen Elizabeth will enter the assembly chamber of the gaily decorated provincial legislature buildings here May 30 along a crimson carpet 200 feet long stretching from the carriageway to the chamber itself.

NORTH VANCOUVER, May 23—A war veteran whose service began in 1870 under Queen Victoria will be one of the many old soldiers who will stand at attention as the King and Queen pass along their north shore route here May 29. He is Alfred Stephens, 80, proud possessor of a medal from Queen Victoria for long service in the volunteer force.

TORONTO, May 23.—The beautiful flower beds of Queen's park, keyt spotless throughout the year, crumbled Monday under the feet of thousands who rushed to the legislative buildings to see the King and Queen. The park resembled a heavily-used picnic area after Their Majesties departed.

CALGARY, May 23. — Calgary bleacher seats along the parade route Their Majesties will follow next Friday are going up in price. Seats generally advertised a week ago at $1 each are being sold for as much as $2 in some sections.

Reliefer Dies Owing His Barber Bill Of $753

Account Accumulated In Fifteen Years

SASKATOON May 23—Eli Pernewowski, a relief recipient who died recently, owed his barber $753 for hair cuts, shaves and shampoos, the bill being accumulated over a 15-year period, city council was told last night.

Pernewowski had been on relief here for four years and his bill with the city amounted to $809.

On his deathbed, he summoned Ald. P. G. Makaroff, K.C., and confessed he had a bank account. He asked Mr. Makaroff to draw up a will making proper distribution of his property. His estate was worth $400.

But Pernewowski, an aged, infirm man who once acted as Russian interpreter in police court, died before Mr. Makaroff could complete the will. The alderman told council Pernewowski had instructed him to make provision for paying a hospital bill.

Tonight the barber asked the council for consideration but he was told he would have to prove his claim in court. He said he could prove it.

Queen Elizabeth Presents Colors To Her Regiment

Pipes skirled until the prevailing Scotch mist almost seemed in order as Queen Elizabeth presented the colors to her regiment, the Toronto Scottish. The colorful ceremony took place on the north campus of the University of Toronto. The Queen is seen passing the regiment, whose files are a model of straightness, with the district officer commanding at her side, his bayonet raised at the salute. After the presentation, Her Majesty proceeded with the King to luncheon at Hart House. The Queen is colonel-in-chief of the Toronto Scottish, because of its affiliation with the London Scottish, territorial unit of the Gordons, the famous Black Watch.

King George, Queen Are Still "In There Punching:" Show They "Can Take It"

By W. R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, May 23.—Toronto was just about ready today to accept as sound and sensible that light-hearted remark to the King, by an American newspaper correspondent who said, admiringly: "You're certainly in there punching. I don't see how you take it."

The King and Queen "took it" for the sixth consecutive day since their arrival in Canada and left last night for the west, tired but cheerful and smiling.

The American slang expression was directed at His Majesty on Friday, after three strenuous days. The King is still "in there."

Their Majesties stayed 45 minutes over their scheduled time to see everything and let everybody see them, finally getting away for the west at 7:45 p.m., E.D.T. They had the prospect of a day-long ride on the Royal train, free from rounds of formalities, through wooded, lake-dotted northwestern Ontario.

During their stay of nine hours and 15 minutes in Toronto King George and Queen Elizabeth crowded in nine engagements, drove 32 miles through Toronto streets to the acclaim of 1,500,000 persons and away from public view, were hugged and kissed by the Dionne quintuplets.

From there they moved on to Queen's Park where the provincial reception was tendered in the legislative buildings.

Before the provincial luncheon the Queen made her first formal appearance unaccompanied by the King during the tour. Dressed in the blue ensemble that she wore throughout the crowded day, Her Majesty presented new colors to the Toronto Scottish regiment on the north campus of the University of Toronto.

At this colorful military ceremony the Queen made her second and last scheduled public address on the Canadian visit when, as Colonel-in-Chief of the regiment, she expressed her pleasure at being able personally to present the "symbol of the loyalty and devotion to duty which marked the services of this gallant regiment in the last war."

After luncheon as guests of the Lieutenant-Governor, the King and Queen drove to Riverdale Park where they were acclaimed by 50,000 children and as many adults, and then went to Woodbine race-track.

Today's Program

The King and Queen will spend today on the Royal train between Toronto and Head of the Lakes, making only two stops. Here is the program:

Schreiber: 2:25 p.m., E.D.T.—ten minute stop.

Fort Arthur: 6 p.m.—Arrival and reception of civic officials and their wives.

6:30 p.m.—Brief stop at Hillcrest Park.

6:45 p.m.—Cross boundary into Fort William.

Fort William: 6:45 p.m.—Arrival and reception of civic officials and their wives.

7:30 p.m.—Departure from station.

Sidelights On Royal Parade

A policeman on guard along the route of the procession turned crimson and made a sudden clutch at his trousers. His suspenders had broken. The quick grab and a safety pin from a nearby newspaperwoman saved the day.

The father of a crippled boy tried for years to get his son a new wheel-chair for the one he outgrew long ago. He never could afford it until the Royal Visit—when he rented space on his balcony and got the needed money.

Henry James Jones of Toronto, who enlisted at 18, waited anxiously in his bed at Christie Street military hospital for the visit of the King and Queen. Three hours before they arrived for a tour of the grounds, he died, aged 72.

Headline: Market Crashes—Thousands of Dollars Lost. But it was only the failure of the grandstand-seat exchange, a heavy loser when Mr. and Mrs. Toronto carried their own camp stool, soap box or kitchen chair and disregarded the newly-built grandstands almost entirely.

Canada's oldest active soldier, Sergt.-Major John Hill, 79, of the Toronto Scottish Regiment, was a proud parader with the guard of honor to the King and Queen. He is a veteran of the Riel Rebellion and served four years in France during the Great War.

A blind man—J. R. Haws, stood with a 19-year-old girl at the window of a downtown office building and "saw the whole show." It was through the eyes of his daughter, Marney, who said she "could hardly see the King for tears and could hardly describe it for the lump in my throat."

When A King Takes a Salute

In the full dress uniform of a field marshal, highest rank in the British army, His Majesty King George VI, with Queen Elizabeth by his side, is shown taking the salute after the Senate ceremony at Ottawa. The King, in addition to all his other orders, is wearing the bright blue sash of the Order of the Garter, which makes a vivid splash across the breast of his scarlet tunic.

Outstanding Royal Edition Of Bulletin

Unique in every way, is the special supplement of The Edmonton Bulletin which is being prepared to mark the visit of Their Majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth, to Edmonton.

Timed for publication on the day of their arrival in Edmonton, Friday, June 2nd, The Bulletin's Royal Edition, will be distributed along with the regular issue of the newspaper, which will be made up of three sections.

A feature of the edition will be an exclusive full-page photograph of Their Majesties on front cover. The section will also contain unpublished portrait and action shots of the Royal Family purchased by The Bulletin for this particular issue.

Special writers will contribute colorful news stories covering the Royal Party's tour of Canada prior to arrival in Edmonton, many of which will be accompanied by pictures.

An outstanding "highlight" of this Edition will be the many messages of welcome to the Royal couple from the manufacturers of "Made-in-Alberta" products.

Due to the historic nature of the occasion, The Bulletin anticipates an extra heavy demand for this special issue, which will be treasured for years to come, and suggests that residents of Central and Northern Alberta, who are not regular readers of this newspaper, should arrange to reserve their copies well in advance. Address your order for extra copies to The Edmonton Bulletin, Circulation Department, Jasper Avenue, Edmonton, Alberta.

Quality Proved Big Part of Obtaining Order For 7,000 Bren Guns

OTTAWA, May 23—The initiative of Major James E. Hahn, president of John Inglis Co., of Toronto, contractor for 7,000 Bren guns, was the quality chiefly responsible for securing to him that order, Defence Minister Ian Mackenzie told the public accounts committee here Monday.

He scouted the suggestion of Howard C. Green Con., Vancouver South) that the department "Was pushing Major Hahn at every step."

When, following an interview with Deputy Minister LaFleche, Hahn proceeded to England he took with him a letter of introduction to war office officials signed by Mr. Mackenzie, which described him as a contractor interested in orders for munitions generally.

The minister said he had never discriminated against any manufacturer in this respect, and if anyone else had approached him, recommended as Hahn was by a member of parliament, he would have given him the same type of letter. Hahn at his own expense had gone to England and made a favorable impression on war office officials.

The subsequent authority vesting him with the title of a Canadian government representative in respect only of Bren gun matters was a necessary supplement to the former letter, required so Hahn might have access to the specifications at the Royal Small Arms factory at Enfield.

Royal Progress In Toronto Is Recorded By Bulletin Reporter

By THOS. WAYLING
Edmonton Bulletin Staff Correspondent

TORONTO, May 23—Yesterday we rode in the Royal Progress, you and I. Hour after hour, through cheering lines of people, to the city hall, to the legislative buildings, to Riverdale, to the Woodbine race track, we followed Their Majesties.

The parade started and the cheers rolled on and on, always ahead like waves breaking on a farther shore. All day long we followed those cheers and now and then as the parade stopped, we caught up to them.

Toronto downtown was splendidly decorated and in excellent taste. I saw London dressed for the Coronation, but it was too ornate in many respects. The Canadian cities have shown a nice reserve. The big department stores really showed excellent taste.

CROWD CHEERED

First we stopped at the city hall. The mayor's small daughter presented a fine bouquet of lilies of the valley. The crowd cheered to the skies as Her Majesty stopped the child and talked to her.

Then came the presentations and they too were properly done. A gentleman presented appeared before the King, bowed, and as the King held out his hand, the gentleman took two steps forward, shook hands, retired two steps and repeated it before the Queen, then stepped backwards out of the picture.

The ladies followed the same procedure but curtsied instead of bowing. It was not the deep court curtsey, but a brief, graceful genuflection.

SCORE PRESENTED

Only a score of people were presented and the ceremony ended, commendable for its beauty and its brevity.

There were no crowds crushing on to the dais, but were all well back so that several thousand more spectators could see everything that went on.

Their Majesties entered their cars and off they went again; and off went we. Circling down to King street, then up the broad reaches of University avenue to the parliament buildings.

The King and Queen were well ahead and the crowd has recovered from its greatest cheers by the time our car happens along.

QUINTS AT WINDOW

We reach the legislative buildings. As we entered the building we looked up and saw the quintuplets at the window of the premier's office and the crowd cheering.

There's a luncheon at Hart House for the King but we slip off with a Toronto press man who knows a good little place to eat on Bay street. He knows his places to eat. A huge steak and mushrooms fortifies the body for another section of the Royal progress.

There are crowds and police lines everywhere but the top hat and tout ensemble work wonders. Paths open up and we get to the Royal cars. Soon afterwards the parade has recommenced and off we go.

NEVER PALLS

Mile after mile, rank after rank of smiling cheering populace. It never palls for there are faces in the crowd which intrigue and interest. There are old soldiers holding the long line, bemedalled and beretted. Some of them have woefully worn clothes, and lines of trouble in their faces, but today they hold the line again; and they do it well.

The R.C.M.P. motor cycle escort wheels out and a waiting cavalry escort takes over. We are swinging down a steep declevity into Riverdale park and there are 250,000 people waiting there, mostly children. The cavalry escort is for the children's sake. And do they love it.

NATURAL AMPHITHEATRE

Riverdale is a huge natural amphitheatre and around its sloping sides people throng. On the floor of the amphitheatre the children are massed in winding formation so that Their Majesties may drive along the line and the children can see them.

Some of the old soldiers on guard show the best idea yet. As the King and Queen pass by they drop on one knee and the front lines of children do the same, so that those in the back see as well as those in the front.

SPECIAL SMILE

There are sick and crippled children on special sloping wooden banks. They bounce up and down in their excitement, and the Queen has a special smile and a wave of the hand for them.

Now and then after Their Majesties pass, the children break the line to race across and are them again, and the old soldiers are in a pickle. It's like trying to stop a swarm of baby rabbits in a lettuce patch.

Out on the road again and so to the Woodbine track. The Royal party enters the Royal enclosure and I'm still with it, though I haven't any credentials whatever for the Royal enclosure. Their Majesties go to the Royal box. I bump into Mayor Day who just put ten dollars on George McCullagh's horse. He takes me to the bar for a drink, and one of the directors of the Woodbine is disconsolate; people are out on the street instead of at the track.

40 DOLLARS UP

The King's Plate is run and Mayor Day is forty dollars up. George McCullagh goes up to get his gold cup, while his diminutive jockey stands wistfully on the track. The hot polloi beside the track are yelling, "Take the jockey to the King; he won the race". The jockey looks hopeful but nothing happens. The King starts to come down the steps, and the jockey brightens, but the cavalry take their position right in front of him and shut him off.

It's about time I get back into the car for the continuance of the parade. A Jockey Club official says the cars are at the east gate, half a mile away. We hurry down that half-mile track—cane, gloves, top hat and all—and just as we get there the Royal Cavalcade happens along. Outside the gate Their Majesties transfer from the carriage to their motor.

HIRED A BUS

What a day. It goes on and on like this. At Queen's Park we have to desert the parade to get back to the station, for the Royal press train pulls out ahead of the Royal train. No taxis, so I hire a bus. Around the Union station the crowds are massed. No chance to get through the solid phalanx, but there's an underground way into the station near the express sheds, and so we arrive back, board the train and pull out for western Canada, via the head of the lakes.

School Children Fly To Winnipeg To See King, Queen

WINNIPEG, May 23.—Six school children from Red Lake, northwestern Ontario mining centre 160 miles northeast of Winnipeg, arrived here today by airplane to see the King and Queen when they visit Winnipeg May 24.

The students, Jean Sullivan, Sheila McDougall, Eleanor Michelouski, Donald Kidd, Lloyd Anderson and Alvin Allinson, were victorious in an essay contest sponsored by Red Lake officials and were awarded a free trip to Winnipeg for the Royal visit. Air transportation is Red Lake's only connection with the outside world.

B.C. Pioneer Will Be Buried Thursday

VICTORIA, May 23.—Mrs. Ada Leslie Ellis, 77-year-old pioneer who watched Vancouver and New Westminster hewed from the forests before moving to Victoria in 1884, will be buried here Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Ellis, widow of W. H. Ellis, publisher of the Victoria Colonist from 1886 to 1892, died Sunday.

Born in Saint John, N.B., she came to the Pacific coast by the overland route over the Isthmus of Panama when five years old. She lived with her parents in Vancouver and New Westminster before moving to Victoria in 1884.

Mrs. G. A. Jordan of Lindsay, Ont., is a sister.

Lieutenant-Governor Bows Low To King George

With almost every new point reached in the Royal Tour, a new line of Canadian history is written. May 22 saw the King's representative in Ontario, Lieutenant-Governor Albert Mathews, welcome the Monarch. The governor and Canada's governor-general have already greeted them. Beside Mr. Mathews, as he bows low over the King's hand, is Mrs. Mathews, and Premier Hepburn, who with his wife, Mayor Ralph Day and Mrs. Day, were also in the welcoming party at North Toronto station.

The League's Business

Danzig was established as a free city under protection of the League of Nations. The League has not waived that responsibility — either to Poland or to Germany. The Council of the League met yesterday at Geneva. Its first duty is to find out exactly how and why the shooting occurred at Danzig on Saturday at midnight, and give the world a clear statement of the facts. It should also make plain whether the local officials appointed there by the League or under its jurisdiction are functioning in accord with the constitution and instructions, or whether they are playing politics at the risk of plunging Europe in another "bath of blood".

It is very much to the point to recall that a pistol-shot, fired at a place of no importance in the political set-up and of which most people had never heard, started the four years of carnage and destruction in 1914. The shooting in Danzig is not a local affair. It is a matter of proper and very great world concern. That is precisely the kind of incident that is liable to touch off the powder-kegs in Europe any day. Danzig is a more dangerous spot just now than Sarajevo ever was. And Danzig is the League's "baby".

Empire Day

Few are the days on which the glories of the British Empire, home of the free, are honored in a public way by those who inherit its traditions, enjoy its protection and guard its destiny. The visit of the King and Queen to Canada should do much to accent the meaning of Empire day. Both will pay it solemn tribute tomorrow and the King, speaking from Winnipeg, will seek to assess its significance and value.

Empire Day was founded in 1897, the year of Queen Victoria's jubilee, by a member of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire, the late Mrs. Clementina Fessenden of Hamilton, Ontario. It was intended to be a tribute not only to the Empire or its sovereign but also to a gracious and gentle lady who had become dear to all her subjects. Tomorrow, as the anniversary again is marked, the figures of the King and Queen will be more prominent in the public mind than the majesty of imperial dominion or the thought of political greatness.

Empire Day is essentially a "human" holiday. It commemorates the achievements of men and women who built freedom wherever they roamed, and thereby laid the basis for an empire. And it is the freedom, more than the vastness, of the empire that inspires the pride and commands the loyalty of its citizens.

Getting Acquainted

The King and Queen seem to have been having a good time in eastern Canada; hard as it is for most of us to see a good time for anybody in having to go through a daily round of nerve-trying functions such as make up their timetable. But perhaps one can get used to even that sort of thing; Their Majesties certainly appear to be at their ease and able to get enjoyment out of the tour, despite the formalities and distractions.

They undoubtedly had a pleasant half-hour at Ottawa when they broke bounds and strolled down the street without guards or escort, exchanging greetings with the multitude of veterans and others who packed all roads to parliament hill. And again when they took an impromptu motor ride out into the country and chatted with the farmers about the crops; to say nothing of the kissing bee when they met the Quints.

It is to be hoped the Visitors will find many opportunities to break away from routine programs as they journey across the Dominion, and that the official directors of their steps will facilitate these lapses from the set arrangements. The real Canada is not to be found at state dinners and presentation ceremonies, necessary and appropriate as these are. Our Guests have come to get acquainted with Canada and Canadians. That can best be done "off stage".

Lest We Forget

"The 24th." is a popular holiday in Canada, particularly popular with "young Canada". When the weather is favorable, not an invariable rule in this part of the Dominion, the main feature of the celebration is a general migration from town and city to country and summer resort, with sport programs engaging the attention of those who do not stray afield. The patriotic demonstrations of earlier days have become less common, due largely to the invention of the motor car and the means it provides to gratify the wanderlust which stirs the blood with the coming of spring. What began as an anniversary, associated with the days of the Empire's expansion during the last half of the last century, has tended to become first a holiday, still associated with flags and bunting and fire-crackers but rather remotely significant of more serious matters.

The presence of the King and Queen in Canada will do something to revive the Empire Day tradition and make it more real than it has been. That is to be hoped. For these are times when Britishers everywhere need to recall the past, take stock of their position in the world, and realize that the liberties they enjoy have not come to them by chance and cannot be kept by the chivalrous consent of others. There are powerful states in the world ruled by men who would pull the Empire to pieces if they could, apportion its territory as spoils of conquest, and subject its peoples to a kind of rule they would not like and in which they would have no say. "What we have we hold"—only if and so long as we are prepared to defend it. That is something we in Canada cannot afford to forget.

Editorial Notes

It has been said before, but Hon. W. D. Euler had good cause to repeat that it is the duty of Canadian governments and business men to pull together in the attempt to restore public confidence. It seems to be rather the favorite topic of discussion in Canada just now how many things there are to be gloomy about. That isn't good policy. We ought to snap out of it, and talk about the things we have to be thankful for, and the opportunities that await capital and labor. Presperity cannot be built on a foundation of unbelief.

Next to finding a live dinosaur wandering around the Bad Lands, is the proposal to establish a provincial park there including some of the known deposits of bones of these ancient Albertans. The average run tourist might not get a thrill looking at excavations and oversize skeletons; but scientists, students and quite a number of amateur observers as well would find it interesting to visit the oldest known cemetery in the province and try to vizualize the scene when these gigantic reptiles splashed through the swamps of our modern dry belt.

French Canada's Loyal Enthusiasm

By JEAN-BAPTISTE BOULANGER

Canada is living these days in glorious jubilation. At every interval of the day, the whole nation listens to the cheering welcome of crowds broadcast throughout the Dominion; for our gracious sovereigns have crossed the ocean in an historic precedent to visit their Canadian people. While we are all so closely bound to the British Crown, it would be fitting to stress a very distinctive feature of the Royal tour in the Province of Quebec.

On May 17, Their Majesties set foot on our soil. The mother city of the country, established in 1608 by Samuel de Champlain, was the first one to greet them. Two centuries after the conquest of New France, the sons of her heroic pioneers were boats to their King and Queen.

Truly they consider them as their own and beloved sovereigns. When shall we witness a similar demonstration of affectionate loyalty to the thunder of shouts and applause we heard on their arrival at Quebec? This joy was heartfelt: French-Canadians are noted for their bold frankness and their lively Latin blood.

Again we listened to the unrestrained outbursts of their feelings at Montreal, as the Royal procession toured the ringing streets of our metropolis, and the world's second largest French-speaking city. Forty thousand school children manifested the continued traditionalism of the younger generation.

Indeed, French-Canada has kept as a sacred heritage its loving fidelity to the British throne. It dates back many and many generations ago, to the very start of English rule. Only fifteen years past Wolfe's victory, American and French agents were sent to enlist the newly-conquered population to the revolution's support. Franklin pleaded in vain the cause of independence and promised Quebec its freedom. The chivalrous spirit of France had not departed with her flag. It still animated these virtuous peasants who had pledged their honor and their persons to Great Britain.

Another instance followed forty years later. Wellington's soldiers were ending in Spain Napoleon's power, and Canada, invaded by American forces, came to its own defence. Here, also, French-Canadians came to the rescue, fighting at Chateauguay under de Salaberry's command and defeating the enemy's army. Twice the British Empire was saved through their sincere loyalty.

The people who sacrificed their blood and consecrated their lives with such a noble determination to their sovereigns, may justly celebrate with unlimited delight the grateful visit of Their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth.

Shortage of Artisans

When the new Hotel Vancouver is opened later this month, visitors will be amazed at the excellence of the interior finishing. In superb craftsmanship, the new hotel makes a wonderful showing.

It is an outstanding fact, too, that practically all of this extraordinary work has been executed by Vancouver workers. It happens that in this city are assembled, amongst citizens making their homes here, the best craftsmen in Canada. Many of them are elderly men; not all, but certainly a substantial proportion.

The question arises, will new mechanical experts arise to take their places? In groups of people having to do with construction work the belief persists that not nearly enough craftsmen are being developed. One is continually running across rather elderly finishers, carpenters, stonemasons and the like, and it is said of them that they are unusual experts and then when they pass on they cannot be replaced.—Vancouver Sun.

The Position of Japan

Japan is not a fascist state. It is true that democracy has never taken deep root there. Ideologically, however, Japan is far from having taken over Nazi doctrine. Furthermore, her economic ties remain with the democracies. While Germany and Italy take less than two per cent of Japan's exports, England and France take nearly seven per cent, and with the United States practically one-quarter of all her sales abroad. Our own purchases of raw silk alone account for more than 10 per cent of all Japanese exports.

Obviously, Japan's economic position, and particularly her ability to pay with her exports for her purchases overseas, would be jeopardized by war with the democracies, or even by a thoroughgoing boycott.

Finally, Japan's primary concern in international politics is Russia. The developing struggle in Europe between England and France and the fascist Powers interests her chiefly as it may include Russia. Already fully occupied with China, Japan can scarcely wish to be dragged into a purely European conflict in which she would be sure to suffer economically. Moreover, by entering such a conflict she would expose herself to an attack by Russia.—New York Times.

Tuberculosis Going Out?

To the average layman, leprosy seems almost a legendary thing, an Oriental horror of biblical times. Unfortunately it is not a legend, and it is not restricted to the Orient nor to biblical times. According to one estimate, at the present time there are still, in various parts of the world, about 3,000,000 people afflicted with this disease, the seriousness of which has not been exaggerated.

Very fortunately, however, in most civilized countries today leprosy is so rare as to amount to a medical curiosity. Thus, in the United States, out of an annual total of nearly 1,500,000 deaths, only about 30 are recorded from leprosy each year. Yet in the Middle Ages leprosy was fearfully common throughout the whole of Europe. What is it that has so set our house in order, that has swept our abode so clean of the dread disease?

This question is not prompted by mere academic curiosity. If we understood the answer, it might throw light on current medical problems. For there are signs that today tuberculosis is also on the way out, following a course perhaps analogous to that of leprosy in the past. Yet we do not fully understand just what is going on. If we did, perhaps we could further hasten the process of elimination.—Metropolitan Life Bulletin.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

Never since May 24 was made a Canadian national holiday in honor of the birthday of Queen Victoria, will Canada have seen such an outburst of loyal sentiment as in this year of grace, when the King and Queen of Canada are with us—the first time a reigning monarch of Britain has paid his Canadian dominion a visit. While loyalty is primarily inspired by the office, the King being the visible embodiment and custodian of the traditions that make British men and women proud of their nationality, we are fortunate that the King and Queen in their own personalities are able to inspire affection.

A NOTABLE 24TH OF MAY

Back East where ladies of the inner circle gathered to attend Royal functions and be presented to Their Majesties, there has been grief and disappointment at the late arrival and consequent curtailment of the eastern program. There are two very human people, doing their best to live up to their duties, who doubtless were secretly pleased to have another two days of quietness on the water, and two days less of official parades. While passenger liners kept their schedules despite fog and ice, the Admiralty who were charged with the safe keeping of the Royal pair on the sea, decided that safety was more to be desired than the keeping of a schedule. They had many things to guard against, with stories of strange submarines lurking along the path of the sea lanes. There may have been significance in that practice en route with anti-aircraft guns and the demonstration of the new depth charges for shattering submerged submarines.

* * *

The expressions of spontaneous loyalty and affection will not be lost on certain chancelleries in Europe. Herr von Ribbentrop, who spent most of his time as Ambassador to Great Britain among the pleasure seekers at court and in the confidences of the "Cliveden set," reported to Hitler that the British people are a degenerate lot, that the dominions and colonies are ready to break away from the Motherland, and that England would make any concession to avoid going to war. His impression may have been true of the particular crowd with whom he consorted. That was his misfortune. The strength of the Throne is not among the idle seekers after pleasure, nor among the monied emigres from other countries. Its strength rests on the loyalty of the great middle and laboring classes—the useful portions of the great British populace. They not only give support to the Throne, but they are stronger than the Throne. One doesn't have to go far back in British history to cite a case in proof.

SURPRISE FOR VON RIBBENTROP

If Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop reads the papers or gets accurate reports from the many Nazi agents now busy in Canada, he'll find no more support for his theory that the dominions are loyal to him than for his co-theory that the British are a degenerate lot that will make any sacrifice rather than fight.

From Amsterdam comes a story that illustrates the folly of dragooning people and terrorizing them with the names of tyrants. A mysterious automobile crossed the frontier from Germany into the Netherlands on May 8, laden with banknotes, gold and jewellery. It was driven by a Hollander armed with documents purporting to show that he was driving the car under orders from Field Marshal Hermann Goering. "These documents are forgeries," he blandly exclaimed, and went on to say that he had been engaged to carry the treasures out of Bohemia into safe custody of some other nation.

IMPRESSED BY GOERING'S NAME

How had he got past the German barriers? Said he, "I drove towards the barriers and shouted to the guards 'I come straight from Goering.' They lifted the barriers for me without question. Had they stopped me, I had intended to show them these forged papers."

Some poor Nazi soldier will get a free pass to a concentration camp.

Nazi agents should have long memories. Fritz Kuhn, leader of the German-American Bund, who entered United States from Mexico is now facing risk of deportation. Reinhold Spitz of New York, former owner of a clothing store in Munich has filed an affidavit stating that Kuhn served a prison term for theft in Germany in 1921. At the request of Kuhn's father, Spitz says he took the young man into his employ on his release from prison. When Kuhn got into difficulties again he contributed to a fund to send him to Mexico. Though naturalized in 1934, Kuhn faces risk of deportation if the accusation proves true.

Mr. Spitz had to flee Germany recently for his political beliefs and was surprised to find his former employee head of the Nazis in United States.

Religion Day By Day

WATER BENEATH WATER

Out on one of the long piers of Atlantic City the owner drove an artesian well beneath the waves, and found sweet water. Our high rocky point is surrounded on three sides by the lake; but drinking water lies many feet below the lake level, in underground streams fed by the distant hills.

These are the "living waters"—pure, cold, sweet and life-sustaining. For the nourishment of his spirit the Christian must tap the deep springs, the ever-flowing currents of God's grace. By prayer, meditation and the word, he needs to drive down to the hidden sources of soul refreshment.

Of some rural households it is said "They have a deep well," as the Samaritan woman said of Jacob's Well. And of serene, peace-filled and effective Christians it may be said, "They have a deep well, and drink of the waters of God."

Give unto me to drink living water from the profundities of Thy providence, our Father, and from Thy very self. Amen.

Read John 4:5-15.

The ubiquitous Franz von Papen met a definite setback in his mission to Turkey. The Anglo-Turkish pact, which he sought to prevent, is established, and Herr von Papen will not be hailed as a great fellow by certain personages back home.—Toronto Globe and Mail.

Disappointed

Editor, Bulletin: I was disappointed with your commendation of the "Farm Relief Scheme" and I feel sure that if farm laborers were in any way organized, that scheme as carried out last winter and even at this time—would not last very long. I am sure a large percentage of the farmers concerned could and should hire their own labor.

By throwing it wide open to all farmers it practically amounted to making it a criminal offence to take farm work in Alberta this winter with money in one's pocket. It was necessary to sign a sworn affidavit that one was destitute to get farm work, as practically all jobs were filled by the relief department. I am glad the Hepburn government in Ontario would have nothing to do with it.

Surely a scheme could be worked out confining this farm scheme to small farmers or those of a certain financial standing. Draw the line somewhere. It is most unjust to force everybody who happens to do farm work to spend their last dollar before they can get another job.

I venture to say also that a large percentage of the men who went out on the "farm scheme" would never have been on relief if this scheme were not in effect.

A VICTIM.

Would Boycott

Editor, Bulletin: The visit of the King and Queen to our Dominion is providing (among other things) a stimulus to the sale of flags. One could reasonably expect that the flags sold would be British-made. But evidently certain business interests are not prepared to go to this extent to demonstrate their "loyalty" and "patriotism."

I went into one store in Edmonton the other day and found flags on sale there which were made in Japan. On examination I also found that a lot of other goods sold in this store were made in Japan—not to mention Germany and Italy).

Canadian people have again and again voiced their demand for a boycott on goods made in Fascist and aggressor countries, but some firms, apparently more interested in profits than in human lives, persist in buying goods from countries dominated by warmongering rulers. Perhaps these firms would be more easily convinced to stop buying goods made in aggressor countries if we ceased buying from them until they do so.

Isn't it about time we told these "Pocket Patriots" where to get off at?

On This Date

By FRED WILLIAMS

Today is the 40th anniversary of the first general observation in the schools of Ontario of Empire day. In 1897, the year of Queen Victorias Diamond Jubilee, Mrs. Clementine Fessenden suggested that the school day before (or nearest to) May 24, the Queen's birthday, be devoted to impressing upon the children of Canada the glories of our Empire's story. The sugestion was endorsed by the Ontario department of education and observance of Empire day began in Ontario schools on May 23, 1899.

The originator of this loyal idea was born Clementine Trenholme in Drummond county, Quebec, and married a Church of England clergyman, Rev. E. H. Fessenden of Bolton, Quebec. The family moved to Ancaster parish church in 1894, and it is recorded that Mrs. Fessenden died there in 1906. One of the Hamilton chapters of the I.O.D.E. is named for her and a tablet in her memory was unveiled at St. John's, Ancaster, on May 27, 1928.

Empire day was first suggested to Mrs. Fessenden by the delight and enthusiasm of her small granddaughter on the occasion of attending a meeting of the Wentworth Historical society with Mrs. Fessenden.

The rules of conduct of the day in Canadian schools are laid down as follows:

"The forenoon of the day is to be devoted to a study of the greatness of the British empire and the afternoon to public addresses, recitations, music, etc., of a patriotic character.

"The morning should be occupied by the teacher in illustrating by facts and figures the extent of the empire, its history and resources. Mention might be made of the most noted statesmen, military and naval men, art, science, etc.

"The system of dominion provincial, municipal and educational government might also be referred to and the geographical illustration from a map of the world of the various possessions of the British empire might also be a feature.

"The Union Jack should be flown prominently from the school buildings during the day."

This year, of course, the visit of the King and Queen will be stressed at the schools in districts which their majesties will visit.

Dad (immediately)—"Mustered by the officers and peppered by the enemy."

We may live without poetry, music and art;
We may live without conscience and live without heart;
We may live without friends; we may live without books;
But civilized man can not live without cooks.

He may live without books—what is knowledge but grieving?
He may live without hope—what is hope but deceiving?
He may live without love—what is passion but pining?
But where is the man who can live without dining?

The golfer stepped up to the tee and drove off. The ball sailed straight down the fairway, leaped onto the green and rolled into the hole. The golfer threw his club in the air with excitement.

"What have you suddenly gone crazy about?" asked his wife, who was trying to learn something about the game.

"Why, I just did a hole in one!" yelled the golfer, a wild gleam of delight in his eyes.

"Did you?" asked his wife, placidly. "Do it again, dear. I didn't see you."

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dear Dorothy Dix—Don't you think what parents need from their children more than all else is the assurance of their love and loyalty —spoken words or written expressions that warm the heart and enable even a feeble old mother to hold up her head and face the world with pride and confidence? So many children feel that they have done their duty toward their mothers when they provide for their physical wants and send them a card on Mother's Day. But that isn't enough. Mother wants something warmer, more personal. She wants to know that her children love her, admire her, appreciate her and are mindful of the effort she has given them and her lifelong sacrificial devotion. Don't you think so?

C. B. T.

Answer:
It is a strange thing that so many children who make great personal sacrifices to provide for their parents' material needs never even think of supplying their spiritual wants.

There are very few men and women who are so unfeeling and so ungrateful for all their parents have done for them as to leave a poor old mother or father to starve or perish of cold. I am continually surprised at the thousands of letters I get from hard-boiled moderns telling me what they are in love, but that they cannot marry because they have heir parents to support.

They recognize that as the first duty and sacrifice their happiness to it, but I doubt if one in a hundred of these boys and girls who give up so much for their parents ever enrich their gift with a few expressions of love.

That is what every old mother and father want. They don't want their children to take it for granted that they know that they love and honor them. They want to be flattered and cajoled. They want their children to tell them how much they admire and appreciate them and how grateful they are for all they have done for them. They want their children to ask their advice and talk over things with them, and listen with interest to their old stories and laugh at their old jokes.

Yesterday: Mary interviews the French family and police promise startling disclosures the next day about Janice French and her secret apartment.

CHAPTER XI

TUCKY THOMPSON had come home late. A cocktail party at Mrs. Van Zant's detained her. But this was not unusual. She always ran hours behind schedule. Tonight she was only 30 minutes off. "Corinne!" her high-pitched voice echoed through the apartment. "Corinne!"

"Oui, Madame, oui. I be there in a moment." Tucky's maid answered sulkily from the kitchen. "I pressing tat dress again for you to wear zis night."

But even Corinne's ill-temper couldn't disturb Tucky's good humor. The afternoon had gone well. Humming a little tune, she rustled into her bedroom.

Her present home was a remodeled walk-up in the East Fifties she had decorated it herself. The walls of the tiny drawing room were sea-shell pink and the furnishings chalk white. There were white bear rugs on the black painted wood floor and white Venetian blinds at the windows. Her bedroom was done in the same manner. In its tenement days the series of cubicles had been called a railroad apartment, but since the architectural face-lifting had taken place they were dignified by the title of the English Chambers. There was a difference of $50 dollars a month in the rent.

Tucky was proud of telling acquaintances, however, that her last apartment, the one where she'd lived with her fourth husband, had cost $12,000 a year. She also explained that she'd taken this present modest home because she didn't think it was right to live in such luxury when so many people were suffering, but to closer friends she confessed that she'd moved into this "dump" until she got more alimony from ex-Pete Thomson. The title is hostess at the Dove, she told them, was also helping her bridge the gap.

* * *

She must dress with extra care tonight. Her favorite pearls she wanted to impress would be at the Dove.

The Van Zants' cocktail party had been a great success. The head of a new cosmetics company had been there and she had nearly agreed to promote his business—as nearly as she could until she was sure what to ask him for her efforts. Meanwhile he'd promised to come to the Dove that night.

"A big spender," she'd tell Duke Martin. "A big spender."

But he wouldn't be grateful. He never was.

Maybe she'd give up being a hostess in his night club and throw her lot in with beauty after all. With a skin like hers, why shouldn't she? The time was ripe. If she was ever to endorse a cosmetics company, she must come to a decision. She'd soon be too old. Anxiously she glanced in her mirror. No, not a line yet.

From beauty, her mind jumped to the Italian Count. Though she was wholly unacquainted with Italian, it gratified her to have him murmur compliments in that language. At least she hoped they were compliments. Heavens! Suppose he had proposed and she'd accepted! Those Italians never had any money. Little shivers ran up and down her back. But they could make love! The Van Zants were so democratic. They always invited everybody. The new head of the slum rehabilitation work in Washington had been there, and a young Swedish prince who was painting those marvelous night pictures. Then there had been quite a circle of dramatic stars; Tilly Porter who was playing in the new Jones' revue; Sir Ronald Summerfield who'd been brought over from London by the very erudite Winthrops and Mary Field who was such a hit in "Bright Danger."

And of course there was Clem Shirley! Duke had reminded Tucky again and again that he wanted her to bring more girls to his club.

"I like them young. I like them beautiful," he had said. "But best of all, I like them with money. They're a talking point. They're the right sort of an advertisement for the Dove."

* * *

It was at the Van Zant's that Tucky had run into Clem, the glamor girl of the deb season.

"So much freshie!" Tucky had thought. She mused. When she saw her she cleverly button-holed Jack Burden.

"I want you to bring Miss Shirley to the Dove with you tonight and sit at my table."

Jack Burden was hardly to be considered, considering South's six club bid and the further fact that a spade return must be safe. I am inclined to think that East should have realized that South's opening heart bid had been phony. Certainly South went through enough contributions to avoid a final six heart contract. Regardless of that, however, the spade return fairly begged to be made and would have changed the result radically. Declarer would have been deprived of one vital entry in the dummy that the club finesse provided, and never would have been able to finesse clubs twice and diamonds once.

Bridal Hairdo Should Be Given Fair Trial

By ALICIA HART

The June bride who plans to wear a different coiffure for her wedding ought to have her hair done the one way at least a week before the date of the ceremony. It takes a little time to get used to a new hairdo. The average woman usually is self-conscious about one until she has worn it a while and had it set at least a second time.

Having cut off her hair mind to change her hairstyle, the bride should take her wedding veil as well as her going-away hat to the operator who is to create the new coiffure. She must insist that the hairdo he suggests be flattering when she is hatless, or wears the veil or her going-away hat.

Once a decision has been reached, and her hair has been dried, brushed and re-arranged, a small sketch of the coiffure should be made. That is, unless she and the operator are absolutely certain that they can remember just where every ringlet and every wave is placed. The bride won't want to take the veil and hat along when she goes back to the beauty shop before the ceremony—hence the sketch.

"LITTLE GIRL" TYPE IS POPULAR FAVORITE

Among the new summer coiffures flattering to the young girl of medium height, whose features are rather small, the "baby" is outstanding. For this hair on top of the head and at sides is cut until it is no more than three inches in length. Back hair is slightly shorter. Unless the hair is naturally curly, a new permanent wave is required. In either case, the hair is set in tiny ringlets all over the head. When it's dry, there are brushed out, then brushed back into small, soft curls.

Bride or not, it is a mistake for any woman to allow the drier to be turned off until her freshly set hair is thoroughly dry. Afterward, the operator will set it ought to brush it vigorously, then arrange the waves and ringlets. The wave which won't curl as a good finishing simply isn't worth paying for.

What To Do

I belong to a club of school girls and we have been having a birthday luncheon for each of the girls during the school months, but we will soon be leaving for our long vacation time. It doesn't seem fair for the girls with Summer birthdays to be left out. Besides tables, buying gifts and planning birthday parties for others, but never having one themselves because their birthdays happen when they are away from school. What can we do for the girls with Summer birthdays? Your suggestion will be appreciated.

RUTH H.

Answer—A splendid solution is one big birthday luncheon just before school ends for all the girls who have birthdays during the Summer vacation. The luncheon need be elaborate, but the long table should be divided into say three units—July, August and September —each unit having some appropriate decoration. The luncheon should be a surprise for the guests of honor, of course, getting the girls together on the pretext of one last round-up before vacation time. Gifts could be placed on their respective chairs which the girls discover when they take their places at the table.

clubs. There was contempt in his gray eyes.

Tucky, chattering constantly, led the pair over to the Dove.

"Miss Shirley, I want you to meet Mr. Martin. Be careful. He's dangerous."

The Duke held out a hand. "Thanks for the warning. Young and beautiful girls are always welcome at the Dove, and they never need be afraid of me."

Tucky found and sleped on his toe, as she waved a hand jowardthe boy. "Don't be so raw." Then in her usual flattery tones, "Jack, this is Mr. Martin, owner of the Dove. You'll find him different."

"I'm sure of that," said Jack easily. "Glad to meet you, Martin. Your place has become quite a town institution. I see it was mentioned in the Gazette tonight."

"That so?" drawled Martin. "I haven't read any of the papers."

"Oh, the Dove is famous," babbled Tucky. "And so is the Duke."

"Just how was the Dove mentioned?" inquired Martin.

"Mary Franklin said that Janice French was having a party there today, I believe. She committed suicide, didn't she?"

"What?" Tucky's face whitened. A nudge from Martin discouraged questions. "I'm so busy, I never have a chance to read the papers. Poor Janice! Where's the funeral? I must go. Everybody will be there. She had so many friends." Then close to the boy opened. "Oh, here is that fascinating Italian count I met at the Van Zants. Mr. Martin, I'm going to leave those nice children in your hands."

If a bushel of wet corn and a bushel of dry corn are both weighed, it is found that the bushel of wet corn weighs less than the bushel of dry corn. The reason for this lies in the fact that the wet corn swells, and there is actually not as much corn in a bushel.

Your Health

By DR. FRANK McCOY

The best kind of bath for daily use is the shower. A good method to follow is to spray the body first with warm water, soaping the parts desired, and then rinsing with warm water and ending with water which is cool or cold, depending upon individual preference.

It is a good plan to take some physical exercises just before the shower, as these will increase the circulation and open up the pores so that they will be cleansed more effectively by the running water.

A short bath is frequently more beneficial than a prolonged one. After the bath the skin should be dried vigorously with a coarse towel. I am convinced that the ordinary tub bath in which the bather lies for a long time in hot water is likely to be weakening and devitalizing, and should not be used too often.

However, the body does not seem to be weakened to the same extent by bathing in cool or running water. Showers also have the advantage of being more sanitary than the tub baths, as the soiled water runs off the body and a fresh stream of water descends on the skin. It is practically impossible to take too many shower baths.

During the warm weather most of you will find it refreshing to take a tepid or cool shower in the middle of the day. If you prefer the warm shower, it is best to take it just before going to bed at night, when it acts as a sedative, soothing the nervous system.

Some of my readers say they can not take showers because of no shower bath arrangement being made in the home. In such a case, the best thing to do is to buy a shower attachment at a drug store. I believe that one may be secured for about a dollar and this may be attached to the faucet and will serve the purpose just as well at a more expensive built-in arrangement.

Twenty or thirty years ago, bathing was generally too infrequent, and even yet I come across patients who firmly believe that it is injurious to health to take a bath every day, but the common practise at this time is to take one or two baths daily.

Occasionally I find a patient with a bathing mania for taking too many hot tub baths and who is consequently weakened from the overuse of hot water, which causes the tissues to be flabby and decreases the circulation on account of the relaxing effect of the heat on the blood vessels.

It is advisable to take at least one shower a day. Now that the warmer weather is coming on, get into the habit of enjoying your daily shower. You will find it not necessary to soap all parts of the body with every bath. Use soap only on the areas which are soiled and after the prolonged soaping and prolonged immersion in hot water for the bath tub bath which you take once a week, if you wish. The daily shower will keep you perfectly clean and is good for your health, but if you feel that you must have your tub bath, do not use it too often.

Raising A Family

Two children were playing casino. The boy took a trick that did not belong to him and piled it up with his stack.

"See here, Buddy, that was Sister's trick. Those were her points," another seven on her two and took them in."

O. R. Barton

Buddy shoved the three cards over grudgingly.

By and by there was another squabble. "He took a turn that wasn't his, just because he knew I had big casino, mother," said the girl.

"That's right, Squeal. Girls don't know how to play. They can't take a joke."

Mother goes over to the table again. "Buddy, if you can't play honestly, then don't play at all."

"I don't want to play anyway. I only said I would to please Sis."

If I had been that young fellow's mother I would have told him something—and not beginning with "Darling, I want to talk to you," either.

"Sis, son," I'd begin, "you can't lose, can you, and especially not to a girl? Well, you have lost a lot more than you think, right this minute. And to a great big girl. I am the girl you have lost out with, I think you are pretty dishonorable, that's what I think. Sis is younger than you are but she is a better loser.

"Now listen to me, Buddy; try to get this through your head. You may as well now, as later on, when the whole world will see you for what you are. If you can't bear to lose at any game, with girls or boys or just anybody at all, don't play. Don't play ball, don't run races, don't enter contests and don't play games.

"If you are a bad loser, you will learn to hate the people who win. If losing means so much to you that you have to break the rules, then you are far safer out of the whole business. Anyone who can't lose and say 'That's O.K.' and forget about it, has no right to try for anything."

It is one time that a parent has to aim straight from the shoulder. For some a child learns that the world won't care much for the hard loser and the unfair player, the better.

Victoria Will Be Host To Newspapermen

VICTORIA, May 23.—The British Columbia government isn't overlooking entertainment for newspapermen here during the visit of the King and Queen next week. Political Boss Sells Out For $750,000: Sentenced 15 Months in Prison

KANSAS CITY, May 23.—Tom Pendergast, exposed as a political boss who sold his influence for a promised $750,000, pleaded guilty Monday to evading income taxes and was ordered to federal prison for 15 months.

Attorneys for the head of Kansas City's besieged Democratic machine pleaded that any term would be a "death sentence" because of the 66-year-old defendants weak heart.

A trail of dollars which led government agents to the startling discovery Pendergast plunged $2,000,000 in one year on his admitted "mania", horseracing, was traced by Maurice Milligan. United States district attorney, before sentence was passed.

Pendergast, a behind-the-scenes maker of governors and senators over a 28-year period, was silent in the crowded courtroom.

Judge Merrill E. Otis emphasized the penalty was for tax evasion solely.

Pendergasts attorney said "guilty" for him.

To government charges he failed to report income for 1935 and 1936 on $315,000 received in a state insurance deal—the only part he got of the $75,000—and on $128,500 paid him through "straw men" in his business firms.

But that $443,500 was only a drop in the bucket, Milligan said, contrasted with the $1,240,746.56 on which Pendergast allegedly has failed to pay since 1927.

Judge Otis' 15-months' sentence was on a single count. He also fined him $30,000. On a second count, he placed Pendergast on probation for five years, provided he pays taxes, penalties and interest on the $443,500.

Regal Suite at Victoria's Empress Hotel Ready For Monarch's Occupancy

VICTORIA, B.C., May 23.—The suite in the stately Empress hotel which Their Majesties will occupy here May 30 prior to the official luncheon in their honor, is ready for royal occupancy save for a few last minute touches and the addition of flowers which will be here in profusion.

Green is the predominating color in the King's bedroom while mulberry is the color for the Queen's chamber, and the sitting room is in harmonizing shades of these two colors.

Large airy windows front on Victoria's bustling inner harbor around which are ringed the Canadian Pacific docks, the Parliament buildings and the Empress hotel.

Beneath these windows are the beautiful formal English gardens of the hotel and beyond them Government street and the Causeway along the harbor front.

TAKE UP CHANT

Here all of Victoria and Vancouver Island, to say nothing of thousands of visitors from the B.C. mainland, Seattle and other adjacent American cities, will take up their station thundering their good natured chant: "We want the King and Queen."

Ships of all descriptions from tiny fishing craft to the Princess Marguerite which will carry Their Majesties from Vancouver to Victoria, will be in the tiny inner harbor to add their color to the scene.

LIKE ENGLISH MANOR

Bedrooms and sitting rooms of the Empress hotel, an hotel built on the spacious comfortable lines of an English manor home, have open fireplaces, a homelike touch that will make the King and Queen feel they are indeed in a "little bit of England."

Immaculate and with shades drawn, the suite which soon will become for all time "the Royal Suite" awaits the momentous day of May 30.

Kelly Seeking Re-Appointment To Police Force

John Kelly, who was dismissed from the city police force in January for breaches of discipline, applied to city council in a letter Monday night for re-appointment to the force. His application was referred to commissioners for a report.

Stating that he had met with no success in a search for employment and that taxes and arrears on improvements to his home were accruing, Kelly said, "I assure you that if re-instated to the police force there will never again be any cause for either censure or criticism in regard to the performance of my duties."

Kelly was dismissed following an investigation into his actions following an accident in which he shot and wounded a taxi driver early Christmas morning. Grounds for dismissal were failure to report the shooting, being off duty without permission and making misstatements to senior officers.

CELEBRATION VICTORIA DAY PLANNED HERE

Highland Games Is Major Item On Program For May 24 Holiday

Edmontonians Tuesday were preparing for a full dress parade in their celebrations of May 24, Victoria Day, in anticipation of the visit of Their Majesties on June 3. Central activity in the day's celebrations here will be the annual Highland Games which will be held at Clarke Stadium starting at 9 o'clock in the morning and continuing until 5:30 in the afternoon.

In addition to the games two games will be staged by teams in the senior soccer group, while at the many golf courses in Edmonton club matches are scheduled for the holiday.

Patrons of the Highland Games will be called to the Clarke Stadium when the skirl of the bagpipes will be heard through city's streets calling the loyal sons and daughters of Scotland to celebrate the 11th anniversary of the founding of the Highland Games in Edmonton.

A record-breaking total of nearly 200 entries in the 50 events will make the Highland Games the highlight of the Victoria Day holiday. Mayor John W. Fry will officially open the games at 2 o'clock. Athletic events will start at noon.

Entries for the games have been received from all four western provinces and from pre-games bookings indications are that a large number of patrons from out of town will be in attendance.

COUNCIL SETS NEW SCALE IN RELIEF CASES

170 Families Changed From "Intermediate" To Province Rate

Approximately 170 families, all of whom came to the city since January 1, 1935, and who are being maintained on relief known as the "intermediate scale" will be raised to the full provincial scale, it was decided by city council Monday night.

The intermediate scale, which council voted to eliminate, is $1 to $25 a month below the provincial scale established by the Alberta legislature at the last session, depending on the size of families.

GET DEDUCTIONS

For these families, however, the city will not allow retention of casual earnings as in the case of families on unemployment relief who are recognized city charges. The families also will receive deductions from food allowances for food they are able to supply themselves, such as vegetables and milk if they have a cow.

"We didn't feel we should give over everything a people coming in here from outside municipalities without making some resistance to the influx," said H. F. McKee, superintendent of unemployment relief. "If we allow them casual earnings it takes the employment away from our own people."

Mr. McKee said he could not estimate immediately the exact difference that would be made in the allowances of these families but that the increase would be greatest for the larger families.

SAYS WANT WORK

J. Cockram, president of the Unemployed Married Men's Association, told council the intermediate scale was a "disgrace to humanity" and said his organization wanted "work and wages" rather than relief.

There are some 2,200 families on unemployed relief, with a total of approximately 9,200 individuals, of whom 65 are single men whose homes are in the city.

Council voted to endorse a resolution of the city of London, Ontario, urging that all "transients" be registered by civic or municipal authorities, to start a movement which would lead to unemployment insurance for all persons over 16 years of age and that the Dominion government assume responsibility for all transient unemployed.

Accompanied by directors of the company, President Hungerford has had his trip delayed anr thus will not stay over in Edmonton, Mr. Owens explained. On his return in a few days, Mr Hungerford is expected to spend some time n the city.

Baby Has Miraculous Escape In Fall

Lady Luck must have been keeping close watch on 17-month-old Patricia Jones Monday. Shortly after 6 p.m. Monday the tot crawled out of her crib on the top storey of the Jones' home at 9332 101A avenue and while her mother, Mrs. James Jones, was busy elsewhere in the apartment, Patricia climbed onto the window sill, looked out too far, and dropped. Although she fell 25 feet before landing with a splash in the mud beside the wooden walk below the window, the soft mud broke the fall and, except for a slight bruise and a shaking up, she was unhurt. In the large panel above she is shown in her mother's arms. On the right is shown the scene of the accident. An arrow points to the window from which she fell, the dotted line shows the path to the ground, and the "X" marks the spot where she landed. Little "Tootsie" Marys, who lives at 9350 Rowland road, posed to give some indication of the height.

City To Seek Senior Governments' Aid In Low-Cost Dwellings

City council Monday night passed a resolution to seek financial assistance from the senior governments to enable the city to build low cost dwelling houses.

Moved by Ald. M. B. McColl, the resolution was aimed to seek amendments to the National Housing Act, 1938, which will facilitate building of homes in this city either for building or rental.

Ald. McColl said his motion was made due to the serious house shortage in Edmonton and the alarming conditions shown in a recent report by Dr. G. M. Little, city medical officer of health. He felt the motion would give further impetus to plans the city has been considering for some time.

HOPE FORM COMPANY

In discussion Mayor John W. Fry told council that commissioners are at present exploring the possibility of forming a limited liability company in the city to finance housebuilding, as proposed in a previous resolution by Ald. J. H. Ogilvie.

"Where is the money coming from?" Ald. G. A. Campbell asked, referring to Ald. McColl's motion.

"There is a housing act," Ald. McColl said, "and I believe the Dominion government is anxious to have it operate more widely. The section that provides money to build houses for rental probably can be obtained if the act can be amended to change the taxation provision. The Dominion will provide the money if the burgesses can be led to accept it. I believe we can start a campaign of education to place the need before the citizens."

MOTORIST IS DISMISSED ON MANSLAUGHTER

Kenneth McKenzie Found Not Guilty In School Child's Death

Kenneth McKenzie, Edmonton salesman, was found not guilty in supreme court Monday by Mr. Justice W. C. Ives on a charge of manslaughter arising out of the death of Dorothy Chisholm, eight-year-old school girl, who died from injuries received in a motor car accident at the intersection of Whyte avenue and 105 street on March 22 last. McKenzie was driver of the car.

Mr. Justice Ives, delivering judgment, was critical of the creation of a traffic hazard by cyclists riding along the wrong side of the road. He said "this was a practice that should be stopped immediately."

TRAFFIC RISK

"In this case there is no doubt the accused met a traffic risk that he should not have been called upon to meet—traffic on the wrong side of the roadway—and it would have been unreasonable to that risk and engage his attention and caution. While thus engaged in watching the bicycle riders on the wrong side of the road and during that period he was approaching close to the other risk that it was his duty to avoid.

"I am clearly of the opinion that his occupation with the first risk removes him from the field of criminal negligence and I dismiss the charge," stated the jurist. He then added the warning that the practice of cyclists riding on the wrong side of the road should be discontinued immediately.

OBSERVING PRECAUTION

Addressing the court on behalf of the accused, A. F. Lymburn, K.C. submitted that the evidence showed the accused was taking every reasonable precaution for the safety of others and that he was proceeding at a reasonable rate of speed. He submitted that the presence of bicycle riders on the wrong side of the road had caused the accused to take his eyes momentarily off the road and when he had cleared this unexpected traffic hazard the children were in front of his automobile and it was impossible to avoid hitting them.

"It is also possible," continued Mr. Lymburn, "that a motor car on the street car limited the space in which the accused could see the children." Accused counsel stressed the conflict of evidence regarding the presence of the street car.

CASSELMAN IS CANDIDATE IN CITY RIDING

Alderman Named To Contest East Edmonton Federal Seat

Pledge that he would strive for "adventurous reform Liberalism" was issued by Ald. Fred C. Casselman as he addressed the nominating convention which chose him unanimously Monday night to be the Liberal candidate in East Edmonton in the Federal election. No other name was placed in nomination.

J. C. Marshall, president of the East Edmonton Liberal Association, was chairman of the convention, held Monday night in Memorial Hall.

CHANGING TIMES

"The rules of yesterday do not apply to the problems of today and Liberalism must practice reforms suited to the spirit of these changing times. That is the sort of Liberalism in which I believe," Mr Casselman declared.

"The Liberal party," he said "is on the spot, to some extent. I want it understood that in the traditional policies of Liberalism I will be second to anyone, but I feel that great reforms must be made and that the Liberal way is the best method of achieving these reforms."

Mr. Casselman hushed the large convention as he spoke earnestly about the plight of people on relief in East Edmonton and the

The Inquiring Reporter

May 24 is Empire Day when all of Canada will forget its troubles and fling its cares to the winds to enjoy the national holiday.

"What do you intend to do to celebrate?" The Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter asked. Here are the answers received:

CONNIE WHITMAM, bank employee: My present plans include a nice easy round of golf. What if it rains? Oh, I'll just stay at home and sleep. Probably will do me more good anyway.

• • •

GERMAINE PACCHINI, nurse: If it is a nice day I'm going to spend it outside, riding and golfing but if it rains I'll stay in books as though it's not going to let up for a while yet, I'll just stay at home by the fire with a good book.

• • •

OSBORNE SHEDDY, salesman: Rain or shine, I plan to play golf on Empire Day. The only thing that worries me is that I'm afraid that it may start to snow and I'm not very confident with screen shoes. But I'm going to play golf.

• • •

RODNEY MOORE, student: Empire Day will be no holiday for me. I'm going to cram for final exams all day long. Well, my intentions are good right at the moment, anyway.

Alleging that the digging of a drainage ditch on a road allowance had diverted water onto 40 acres of his farm and rendered it useless for agricultural purposes, Fred Eckert, Hay Lakes district farmer, sought $1,200 damages from the Rural Municipality of Black Mud in a supreme court action which started Tuesday before Mr. Justice W. R. Howson. Mr. Eckert claims that flooding during the past three years has prevented him from seeding 40 acres of his farm adjoining the water diversion, and claims $300 damages for each of the three years. The hearing is proceeding.

Canadian Atlantic exports totalled 3,161,000 bushels this past week, with all ports operating now that the ice has disappeared. The Canadian Pacific clearances were only 389,000 bushels. Total Canadian wheat and flour exports for the weekend ing Saturday at noon last were 3,678,000 bushels. The United States also shipped fair quantities from the Pacific ports and from the Gulf to Antwerp. A total from all ports of 2,946,000 bushels, a grand total of 6,624,000 for North America, the largest single week's shipments since last October. The floating stocks of wheat and flour are enlarging rapidly. There was an increase of five million bushels this past week and the total is now eight million bushels greater than at this time last month. However, the total afloat is still 2¾ million bushels less than last year at this time.

Oddity Boosts Stamp Value

One of those rare faults which send the value of stamps rocketing to levels far, far above their face value, was uncovered in Edmonton recently by H. T. Weville, stamp dealer, and already strips of 10-cent stamps, which would have ordinarily cost $1 at the post office, have been sold for more than 25 times that modest figure.

Mr. Weville received recently from a small country post office a sheet of 100 rose-colored 10-cent stamps which bear an engraving of the Memorial Room of the Peace Tower in the Parliament buildings at Ottawa. The distinguishing feature of this block of stamps, however, is that instead of being printed on an ordinary sheet of stamp paper, the paper on which these were printed was patched. There are two reinforcements on the back of the sheet overlapping from two-thirds of the second stamp to one-third of the fourth stamp. This means that one of the stamps in each row, is made up of two separate pieces pasted together. Those collectors who have already purchased some of these stamps are: Stewart Johnson, W. A. Sterling, R. E. Metcalf, of Edmonton, and H. C. Hughes of Calgary. Mr. Johnson bought two rows with the plate block. On the left, above, is shown one of the normal 10-cent rose stamps. On the right is shown what one of the faulty stamps looks like after it had been soaked and divided to show the fault which makes it unique.

INVESTIGATION DIFFICULTIES IN RELIEF ACT HELD

Investigation of misunderstandings in regard to the application and policies of the new relief act was carried out at Drumheller recently, according to A. V. Bourcier, Social Credit member of the legislature for Lac Ste Anne, who is a city visitor. He said that the matters in doubt had been cleared up.

Mr. Bourcier stated that an investigation also had been held into complaints of a relief organization in Calgary that relief recipients were required to carry out city maintenance work for their relief. Report on this matter, to be submitted to Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health and in charge of relief, is pending, Mr. Bourcier said.

He stated that following the Royal Visit here, the full committee would be called to deal with the case of a man in this allegedly struck off relief and who has been carrying a "sandwich board" around the city posting himself at corners.

At Drumheller and Calgary Mr. Bourcier was accompanied by Dr. J. L. Robinson, Social Credit member of the legislature for Medicine Hat. At the Edmonton meeting, they will be joined by the third member, Mrs. Edith Gostick, Social Credit member for Calgary.

EX-SERVICEMEN STREET PATROL NUMBERS 3,000

Edmonton streets will be lined on June 2 by 3,000 ex-servicemen who will co-operate with the police in keeping the route open, W. R. McLaren, president of the local branch of the Canadian Legion, announced Tuesday.

He said that 733 bleacher seats will be placed around the Cenotaph for the free use of disabled ex-servicemen or children, under eight, of war veterans lining the route.

Seats will be sold, he added, to the War Widows' Association, ex-service women, nursing sisters and to wives of veterans on duty. Sale opens Tuesday evening at Memorial hall.

Major R. C. Arthurs, parade marshal, said the following organizations will join in lining the route: Canadian Legion, Army and Navy Veterans, Canadian Corps, Red Chevrons, Imperial Veterans, each unit being allotted a portion of the route.

Committee in charge of arrangements includes Mr. McLaren, Legion representative; Norton Ferris, M.C., president of Army and Navy Veterans; Col. W. Oliver, M.C., president of the Canadian Corps Association; Henry Laing, president of the Red Chevron Club; George Wilce, president of Imperial Veterans; Lance T. Smith, D.C.M., president of the Amputations' Association.

It has been estimated that in the United States there is one filling station for every mile of surfaced highway.

TINY CANOE IS PRESENTED TO HER MAJESTY

Citizens Of White River and District Welcome Royal Couple

WHITE RIVER, Ont., May 23.—A little birch-bark canoe, gaily colored and filled with trailing arbutus, a tiny white flower gathered from the surrounding bush country, was presented to the Queen today during a 40-minute stop of the Royal train here.

"I'll take this canoe home to my children," said Her Majesty, thanking eight-year-old Joyce Adams for the gift.

Scores of Indians lent a primitive touch to the reception for the King and Queen. They joined prospectors, fishermen and trappers who helped the 500 White River citizens welcome the King and Queen to Ontario's northwest.

Indians were here from nearby Mobert and scores of white residents came to the railway settlement from Chapleau, Nicholson, Dalton, Franz, Amyot, Heron Bay and Coldwell.

White River has the reputation of being Canada's coldest point, temperatures falling 40 degrees below zero and more in midwinter. Today the temperature was at freezing.

CITY TO SEEK NEW HELP FOR HOUSING PLAN

Amendments To National Act Would Be Benefit, McColl Feels

Act provides that the Dominion will put up 90 per cent. of the cost on low rental houses to be let to people of limited income, but only will allow taxation of one per cent of value to be charged against the houses. This is just one-fifth of Edmonton's ordinary municipal taxation.)

CHARTER HAMPERS

"We can't get the money under our present set-up," said Ald. E. Brown. "Under our charter we have different tax rates for different people in the city. I believe, however, that there are several people in Edmonton who are ready to help in financing houses and education of ratepayers might help."

"I imagine we can't have low rental houses if we charge the regular tax against them," said Ald. J. H. Ogilvie. "Besides, if we do build low-rental houses, with a cut-rate tax, the burgesses, who in many cases are renting houses, would oppose us."

Ald. A. A. Campbell said he would oppose building houses to rent but was prepared to assist people to get money to build houses.

Ald. Brown said the Dominion was in favor of the plan suggested by Ald. Ogilvie for formation of a local housing company.

PLAN STUDIED

That is the plan we are looking at now, Mayor Fry said, speaking for the commissioners.

Ald. McColl's motion was passed.

Council passed a bylaw providing that non-established dealers, or itinerant peddlers of goods not produced in Alberta, should pay a $200 licence to allow them to sell in the city. The bylaw is aimed principally at curbing activity of independent truckers bringing in fruit from outside and selling it from door to door in competition with established dealers and merchants.

Bylaw providing that merchants selling cooked or canned meats be classed as fresh meat sellers and required to have a butchers' license was passed. If such stores stay open after 6 p.m. or after 1 p.m. on Wednesdays, they must have the meat section of their stores closed off so that meats are not displayed to the public view and are not sold.

Council unanimously passed a motion by Ald. Hugh John Macdonald that commissioners investigate the possibility of refunding all or part of the city's debt at lower interest rates.

Mortgage Is Burned

Pictured here are the two daughters of the founder of McDougall church, Rev. George McDougall, as they hold the $20,000 church mortgage on a rod while Dr. T. C. Buchanan, a former pastor of the church and now honorary pastor, touches a match to the piece of paper. Rev. A. K. McMinn, minister of the church, assists in the ceremony. The church lights dimmed as the blue flames burned brightly to write finis to a victorious campaign, in which the members of the church, with assistance from various parts of the Dominion, in 15 months raised the necessary money to write off the church's indebtedness. In the picture, left to right, are Mrs. Harrison Young, Rev. T. C. Buchanan, D.D., Rev. A. K. McMinn, B.A., and Mrs. Leslie Wood.

CHURCH BURNS MORTGAGE AS DEBT IS PAID

Colorful Ceremony Is Held At McDougall Monday Night

Fifteen months of strenuous and self-sacrificing work was culminated Monday evening at McDougall United church, when at an impressive ceremony the $20,000 church mortgage was burned as happy members of the congregation watched the debt of almost 30 years, go up in smoke.

Born in the mind of the pastor, Rev. A. K. McMinn, B.A., the Victory Fund campaign was actively started when Jack Archer of Beaverlodge, a former member of the church, made a final donation.

WOMEN OFFICIATE

Two women, Mrs. Harrison Young and Mrs. Leslie Wood, daughters of the founder of the church, Rev. George McDougall, held the mortgage for a long end, while Rev. T. C. Buchanan, D.D., touched the match to the paper which sent up smoke for the last of the church's indebtedness.

The story of the campaign as told in a souvenir booklet of the church is that in 1910 a mortgage of $50,000 was taken out, and although the sum had been nearly twice repaid there was still outstanding about $40,000 in 1938. The company holding the mortgage agreed to accept $20,000 to write off the debt. So 15 months ago, Mr. McMinn started his campaign for funds to free the church from its economical burden.

DONATIONS

Donations from church organizations included: Men's Association, $245; Choir, $45; Kaieties Club, $150; Ladies' Aid, $2,100; Choir, $1,100; Young Peoples' Society, $221; Sunday School, $350.

Individual contributions totalled $10,344, while organizations contributed $4,291; and from outside gall was associated in the pioneer days; sources came $6,084. The contributions ranged from five cents to $1,000.

In speaking of his appreciation in the support given by church in the campaign, Mr. McMinn said that this "is a victory inspired by God, and the story of a congregation raising such a large sum of money in so short a time is nothing short of miraculous. The goal is now reached and our victory is won. I wish personally to thank all who have helped make this joyous celebration tonight a reality.

NO FAILURE

"Not one organization failed in its objective; but invariably went over it. Everybody helping to win' has been our slogan for the work put into the campaign I thank the congregation and to God I proffer my thanks," he concluded.

In speaking of the fund, Rev. A. S. Tuttle, M.A., D.A., LL.D., vice-chairman of the Victory Fund committee said that "there is one man in whose heart this scheme was conceived and through whose sound judgment and sanctified wisdom and irrepressible hope this issue has been culminated. And I refer to your pastor Rev. McMinn

TREASURER'S REPORT

W. F. Empey, treasurer, reported that when all expenses were paid there would still be a small balance in the bank.

Mayor John W. Fry expressed his happiness over the fact that "you are free from the burden of debt, and I hope you will continue your efforts so that McDougall may enter upon a new era of prosperity."

Dr. F. S. McCall, member of the fund committee read letters of congratulation from: Rev. Lorne McTavish, Presbyterian, former pastor of the church; Rev. G. H. Villett of Vancouver, former pastor; Dr. A. E. Black, Toronto, Ont., former pastor of Central United; Dr. T. H. Whitelaw, Jack Archer, Beaverlodge; Rev. D. L. Daiglesh, Claresholm, president of the Alberta conference.

On behalf of the Ministerial Association of which he is president, Rev. Ross K. Cameron, M.A., said that "some will ..." is a church without debt is a dead church, but no greater falsehood is ever uttered; for now that you are free from debt, you have the opportunity to devote yourselves to the gospel debt that Christian people can recognize, that of dealing with the things in the Kingdom of God for these debts can never be paid off by the efforts of man."

Rev. D. C. Rannie, of the Edmonton Presbytery, congratulated the congregation for the spirit which has sustained its efforts down through the years.

NAMES TO HONOR THEIR MAJESTIES WILL BE CHOSEN

City council will hold a special meeting next Monday at 5 p.m. to consider naming streets, parks or other parts of the city in commemoration of the June 2 visit of the King and Queen to Edmonton, council decided Monday night.

An early suggestion was made that the name of Portage avenue be changed to Kingsway and that the present Kingsway take the name of Portage avenue. Naming of the Civic Centre properties as Queen's Park or Queen's Gardens, also was proposed.

A special committee, compelsing Aldermen D. K. Knott, J. H. Ogilvie and M. B. McColl was named by Mayor J. W. Fry to study these proposals and report to the special council meeting.

"I have been pestered by women protesting against calling Portage avenue Kingsway," said Ald. D. A. Stroud. "They say it should be called Royal Avenue as the Queen will ride down it."

The economic set-up has failed, Mr. Casselman declared, and he emphasized the opportunities that should come to every Canadian citizen and that problems small ones, he believes, are

WILL HELP

"I am not from 'Mr. Casselman went on 'thinking only of those actually on relief, but of those who are trying desperately to keep off the relief rolls. If there is anything I can do to lighten the load placed upon either of these groups, I shall consider no sacrifice too great and no task too heavy."

Mr. Casselman said he did not feel the need of specific planks about himself as he was same many of the people in the convention hall, and in the constituency generally, had voted many times for him in the past when he was a member of the school board and, latterly, when he became a city alderman.

"But I want to say that I am one of those people who call a spade a spade. My 'yes' always means 'yes' and my 'no' always means 'no.'

TRUE TO TRUST

"Do not hesitate to come to me with your suggestions or your arguments or your good counsel," said Mr. Casselman, as he stressed his determination to be the "people's representative" and his concern for remaining true to their trust.

A month ago, Mr. Casselman declared, he had no idea of being the Liberal candidate, or of allowing his name to go before the Liberal convention. Solicitations of many friends, from all parts of the constituency prevailed upon him to venture into the federal field, his first entry in federal politics.

ASKED POSTPONEMENT

Only minor flurry during the convention came when a delegate, Bob Chambers, moved that the convention be postponed till after the Royal visit. George B. McLeod might be a candidate.

Asked by Jack Marshall why Mr. McLeod did not let his name go before the convention now, Mr. Chambers had no answer.

When the motion to adjourn the convention was put, only 13 delegates supported it, and 290 delegates voted against it.

Col. McLeod was not present at the convention. Angus Laing said in his behalf that Col. McLeod had requested a definite meeting against going into politics and that the colonel did not desire to be nominated.

MARSHALL lauded

Enthusiastic reception was accorded R. C. Marshall, Liberal candidate in the 1935 Edmonton constituency election, as he assured that he had got a bigger Liberal vote than three thousand votes more than any other Liberal candidate in the constituency.

Mr. Marshall, who ran as new candidate for nomination and had been the winning candidate would be the support of a united party in the campaign.

He lauded the work of Hon. James A. Mackenzie, minister without portfolio and M.P. for West Edmonton as one of the most unselfish and untiring men in the public life of Canada at the present time.

Greetings to the convention were received by Liberal executive officials etc the nominations began.

Speakers were Dr. Yakimischak, E. L. Gray, provincial Liberal leader; Gerald O'Connor, M.L.A., Dr. A. E. Archer, Liberal candidate for the Vegreville federal riding.

Crest For Train

L. D. Blais, 10222 107 street, has offered CNR. officials a metal plaque to be placed on the train which carried the "duke of York on a tour of Canada in 1901. He has purchased the train which is used only when the Royal Party is travelling over the Alberta lines of the railroad. Mr. Blais received the crest from his father, R. A. Blais, who was stationmaster at Causapscal, Quebec, at the time the Duke, later King George V, toured the Dominion.

Isn't it time to Kick Over the Traces?

ACCORDING TO THE NEWSPAPERS, it's been a long, tough winter. Blizzards . . . the budget . . . politics . . . taxes . . . and the Flu.

But, hang it all, man it's Spring outside!

In just 15 minutes you can whisk every worry from your mind.

Just sit in this new Nash. It has more fun and excitement and spring madness packed into its singing lines than you've felt in your hands for years.

Feel that cushion flatten out behind you as you shift into high!

There's a special kind of engine up in front that knows your every whim—can idle you silently down a moonlit road—or whisk you to a dot on the line. Then still— for suddenly a Fourth Speed Forward sends you flashing into a new range of performance you never felt before!

You can't keep it from passing others on the road, or showing off in the hills!

And when you ride, listen. Listen to silence. No tell-tale vibration or unpleasant wind-whine disturbs your new-found peace of mind. Only when you look outside do you know how fast you're going, how rough the road is.

Yes—go ahead . . . take a deep breath! For even the air is different in a Nash . . . fresh as an ocean breeze, filtered of road dust . . . and, thanks to the "Weather Eye," you'll never have to drive in a topcoat again.

Just let those miles keep rippling off behind your wheels . . . until you know what you felt like back in those carefree days of '29!

Then you'll realize why we had to put a full-size convertible bed inside . . . for once you start driving a Nash, you never know when to stop!

• • •

Yes . . . there ought to be a charge for driving a new Nash, because it makes you feel so free!

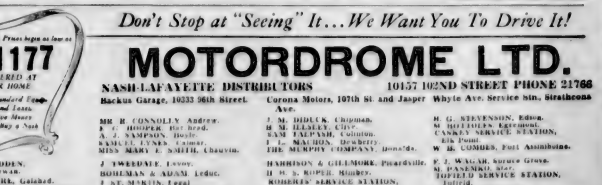

But this experience is yours to command, at any Nash showroom.

And it can be yours every day is your life, for the cost of a common-place car!

Fact is, there are ten Nash models priced next to the lowest . . . holders of the Gilmore-Yosemite economy record in their class, with 21.25 miles to the U.S. gallon—and built the usual Nash way to go and go and GO!

Come on down . . . and get a new look at life through a Nash windshield.

It's that new NASH

Fighting Fever It's Dangerous! Closing Series

EVERY DAY the interest in the Wenstob-Warrington title fight is climbing by leaps and bounds—which is proving somewhat of a surprise to some of the boys who thought that Wenstob had lost his drawing power. Travellers tell me that everywhere they go around the central and northern half of the province, the battle for the Dominion title is the chief sport topic.

However, interest right here in Edmonton reached a new high last night according to reports that reached us from sources that are generally right at least half of the time.

Two well known lads about town were strolling down Jasper, well fortified against the chill of the evening with overcoats and such things. They stopped to consider a Wenstob-Warrington fight poster.

"Warrington will undoubtedly knock Wenstob right out of his shoes and maybe out of his pants," one of the lads remarked. "I have seen this Warrington monkey in action and he is the toughest citizen that I can think of right now."

"And what do you know about fighting?" demands the Second Lad. "You are possibly a has-been in one sport. I admit, but certainly no judge of any other branch of athletics. To be brutally frank, I don't think you know a right cross from a Maltese cross."

"I know enough about fighting to pop you so hard on your schnozzle that you will get a private preview of the fireworks that will go off here on the night of June 2," the First Lad announces.

"You couldn't break a pane of glass with a sledge hammer, but if you crave action come on up to the gym and I'll give you a few pointers—pointers that will leave a black eye tomorrow and maybe a mouse or two," the Second Lad retorted.

The First Lad accepted the proposition and they started for a gym. En route they picked up one of Edmonton's better known fighters to act as referee and judge. They found the gym deserted and promptly stripped down and donned boxing gloves. The battle hadn't gone any more than two minutes, when a scout in charge of the gym came rushing in. He ordered the battlers out and threatened to summon the Law if they didn't scram immediately.

Being law-abiding citizens, the two lads adjourned their fight to the street. The first good wallop that the Second Lad launched on the new battle ground laid him low. He slipped, hit the pavement and broke a bone or two, which is the reason he is in hospital today.

However, none of the foregoing should be taken as indicating that the First and Second Lads are enemies. They have been and undoubtedly still are the best of pals. The moral of the whole thing is that fighting on wet pavement is often dangerous . . . even for experts.

Grads Ready For Next Series

NEXT Monday the Grads will open their third and final international basketball series of the spring season when they clash with Harry Wilson's Queen Anne Aces from Chicago. The third game of this series is slated for June 2, the night of the Royal visit to Edmonton. If ever the Grads are to draw a capacity house again, it should be that evening.

Those Queen Anne Aces have won the annual Chicago basketball tourney two years in a row now and Coach Wilson is certain they will provide a series with the Grads that will justify them bring given the honor of playing here during the royal visit. Most of the Aces have played here before in other uniforms, while Wilson has been coming here so long that Edmonton seems like home to him.

The Chicago squad will arrive here Sunday evening and hold a workout at the Arena on Monday morning. Wilson has been drilling his team since March for the sole purpose of beating the Grads. He knows the Grads' technique perfectly and should give the world champions a series to be remembered.

Incidentally, the Grads will be playing their 500th official game on Monday night. That count starts back in 1915 when Coach Percy Page organized the team. It is just another of the amazing facts that the Grads' record book bristles with.

TIGER TERRY IS CONFIDENT OF WIN HERE

Leaving New York Today For Bout Billed Here With Wenstob

NEW YORK, May 23.—Terry (The Tiger) Warrington, Nova Scotia claimant of the Canadian heavy and light-heavyweight boxing championships, wound up New York training Monday for his June 1 title-defence against Eddie Wenstob in Edmonton and prepared to leave for Alberta today.

The tan thumper from Liverpool, N.S., went three heavy rounds with Al McCoy, Boston French Canadian star, then perfected his defence for two rounds against the best shots of Abe Feldman, New Yorker who recently was knocked out by Tony Galento. After the stiff session Terry scaled 176, a pound more than he expects to take into the ring against the Edmonton challenger.

"Warrington is in the best shape of his career," Bobby North, his manager, said as he unwound the tape from the Negro's hands. "We both feel sure Wenstob won't be able to last the 15 rounds."

REEVE IS COACH MONTREAL CUBS

TORONTO, May 23 — Ted Reeve, Toronto sports writer and coach of the Queen's University football team for the past six seasons, has resigned the latter position and will lead Montreal Cubs of the Interprovincial Big Four Union next fall, it was announced Monday.

Reeve, former star player with Bobby Beach on the Ontario Rugby Football Union, left Queen's to three senior intercollegiate titles during the six years he coached the tri-color teams.

Hammering Hank and His Opponent

Henry Armstrong, left, one of the outstanding figures in the fight game, looks on while the doctor examines Ernie Roderick, who goes into the ring against the two-crown champ at London's Harringay Arena, May 25. For Hammering Hennery, who holds both the world's lightweight and welterweight championships, it will be the first fight abroad and his welter crown will be on the line. So far during his stay in England in preparation for the fight, he has made a decided hit with most of those with whom he has come in contact.

King Watches Archworth Closely Throughout Entire Running of Big Race

By FOSTER BARCLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, May 23.—C. George McCullagh's Archworth, a handsome colt to the King's liking, won the 80th running of the King's Plate Monday while Their Majesties and 40,000 others watched him stride home far in front at Woodbine Park.

As the throng thundered approval of the sportsman-monarch and acclaimed the sturdy three-year-old, the King presented his personal gift of 50 guineas to Mr. McCullagh, who beamed modest acknowledgment of the King's praise.

The King turned his field glasses on the favored Archworth as the colt leaped to the lead at the start. Two lengths ahead shot the brown speedster then five, then eight. The King's glasses never left him.

NO COMPETITION

Archworth was 10 lengths on top at the finish of the mile-and-a-furlong gallop over a slow track. He might have set a plate record if he had been pressed, but there was no competition. He was caught in 1:52 2-5; just one-fifth over the record. Archworth paid $3.40 to win, $3.50 to place and $3.50 to show.

Harry Giddings' Sea General finished fast in the stretch drive to take second place, a neck in front of the Parkwood stable's skyrunner. The rest of the field of 13 were scattered further in the rear.

Mr. McCullagh, dressed in a business suit because he had been unable to get back from his sick mother's bedside in London in time to don morning clothes, was more concerned that the King should know about Archworth's breeding. His chance came when His Majesty asked: "And how did you come to own him?"

BOUGHT FOR $500

Mr. McCullagh told of buying Archworth at a yearling sale two years ago. The horse was bred by William H. Wright, owner of the newspaper of which Mr. McCullagh is publisher. Anyone might have bought him but Mr. McCullagh's $500 was good enough.

They laughed together at the purchase price, for Archworth gained $8,750 of a $10,000 added purse as well as the King's guineas yesterday. Then His Majesty turned to acknowledge again the full-throated cheers of the people.

The roars swelled as the royal couple returned to their open carriage, to be driven past the stands out of the park. This had been one of the great events of the Royal tour—this brief visit to North America's oldest continuously run race.

QUEEN LIKES COURSE

"How lovely a course," exclaimed the Queen to Mrs. A. E. Dyment, wife of the president of the Ontario Jockey Club. The royal couple had just reached the royal box after encircling the racing strip on entering the park.

The King put himself at ease as soon as he reached the royal box, lighting a cigarette and chatting with Mr. Dyment as they consulted the program together. Flowers were removed from the railing before the King and Queen to give the crowd a better view. A great shout went up when club-house patrons realized Their Majesties had asked that this be done.

WRIGHT IS BREEDER

Mr. McCullagh laughed heartily later as he told how Mr. Wright, "My Pal, Bill," saw his first King's plate race through a knothole in the Woodbine fence in 1908. "He decided then to breed a King's plate winner. Today's honor is all his. He bred Archworth—I'm just the owner."

"I knew he was a good one," Mr. Wright said, praising Archworth's victory. "I was not the least surprised when he won. He's the best horse I ever bred."

Jockey S. D. Birley described Archworth as the best horse he ever rode. "He never got out of a gallop and wanted to play all the way."

ESKIMOS HOLD FINE WORKOUT MONDAY NIGHT

A fine turnout of players greeted Coach Bob Fritz as the second week of the Eskimo football club's spring training season got underway at Clarke Stadium on Monday night.

The Eskimo coach is elated with the fine showing being made by a number of the boys, and has been impressed with the particularly fine work being turned in by Ted Heath, rugged Edmonton product, who has been going great guns with the backfield candidates.

Russ Wile, powerful Minnesota import who has been helping out Fritz by coaching line prospects, is also enthused with the way the players are going in practice and expects some fine football players to be developed out of the material on hand.

Another workout is called for tonight at the Stadium at 6:30 o'clock.

FORT SASKATCHEWAN, May 23.—Plans for a sports day on May 24 have been made. One of the major features will be a baseball tournament with eight ball teams expected to enter. A second diamond has been laid out. Other features will be a softball tournament, midway features, and races of all descriptions. Work on the race track for the bicycle races has been in progress for some time.

Winnipeg Pro Is Only Canuck Successful

NEW YORK, May 23.—Kasmir Zabowski, Winnipeg professional, will carry Canada's challenge in the United States open golf tournament June 8, 9 and 10 at the Philadelphia Country Club.

Zabowski was the only Canadian to gain a spot in the championship proper in yesterday's 36-holes of sectional qualifying play but it was good fortune as much as good golf that won for him.

The Manitoban, playing at Minneapolis, shot 150 to finish seventh in his section but gained Minnesota's lone tournament berth when the six who finished ahead of him were unable to go to Philadelphia.

MAKES STRONG BID

Joe Thompson of Hamilton, Ont., made a strong bid at Buffalo with 76-73—149 which would have been good enough to qualify easily in some sections but not in Buffalo where the competition was keen. Ed. Oliver, Hornell pro, took the first qualifying spot there with 144, followed by Fred Allen, Rochester amateur, with 146, and Frank Commisso, Irondequoit pro, with 147.

Thompson's 149 landed the Hamilton amateur in a three-way tie for Buffalo's alternate berth but he lost out in a playoff. Other Canadians failing by the wayside at Buffalo were Eddie Sams with 76-82—158; Merlin Luther, 82-77—159, and Doug Laughton, 78-84—162. They all come from Fort Erie. In Detroit M. C. Schiller of Kingsville, Ont., shot 165 to finish 22 strokes behind Melvin Harbert, Battle Creek, Mich., amateur who took the top Detroit qualifying spot.

GOODMAN LEADS FIELD

There were plenty of big names among those who failed. Too there were plenty of greats among the qualifiers—such name players as Billy Burke, Johnny Goodman and Tony Manero, all former winners. Goodman shot 73-70—143 to lead his field at Omaha, one of the few amateurs to turn that trick.

GIRLS' SOFTBALL LEAGUE OPENER BOOKED TONIGHT

The three-team Edmonton Girls' Softball League will get under way tonight at Boyle Street grounds, weather permitting. The starting time is scheduled for 7:00 p.m., with the Army and Navy Pats meeting the South Side Royals.

Opening ceremonies will feature Mayor J. W. Fry, who will make the first pitch, while doing the umpiring will be Leroy Goldsworthy, manager of the Edmonton Sports Booster Club.

South Side Royals, known last year as Oidring's Black and Whites, will again be managed by Oldring while Doug Hill will coach the Pats in this campaign.

The third team forming the league is Eddie Oldring's Orange and Cream. The Oldring brother will play in a feature attraction at Fort Saskatchewan on Wednesday, May 24.

There is a possibility that President W. Tait will form a fourth team known as the Grads, but this team will not be in action until after the Grad series against Chicago girls.

PAIR SOCCER GAMES BILLED WEDNESDAY

Along with the Highland games, soccer matches will be a holiday sport attraction here. The senior soccer loop teams will take to the field immediately after the Highland games at Clarke Stadium on Wednesday evening while a junior clash is scheduled for the South Side Athletic Grounds on the same evening.

SCONA FAVORED

Scona United, beaten but once in three games, will be out to keep their record clean when they meet the Scottish eleven at the Stadium, starting at 7:00 p.m., on Wednesday. The Scona lads have done well in their three starts, losing one game to the Civics and going to a 2-2 tie in another. Scona has beaten the Scots once since the season has opened, and hope to duplicate this performance this evening.

The Scotch on the other hand, have not fared too well since the opening games. They have failed to hit the winning column and the blues hope to hit this winning column on Wednesday.

The junior game at the South Side will see Cloverdale Cloverleafs against Eastwood Rangers. This game will start at 6:45 p.m.

CIVICS PRACTICE

To keep in trim the Civics have called a practice for the Stadium this evening—not that they need such a strenuous workout, declared Johnny Wilson. The Civics, however, have a habit of keeping in trim and all players must be on hand for this evening's drill at 6:45 p.m.

WINNNING JOCKEY IS EX-WESTERNER

CALGARY, May 23.—Jockey S. Birley, who received congratulations from King George VI after he rode Archworth to victory in the 60th running of the King's Plate at Toronto Monday, was well-known in western Canada.

Born in Saskatchewan, Birley served his riding apprenticeship on western Canada tracks and became contract jockey for Captain Frank Eaton of Alix, Alta. Five years ago he piloted Curban Queen to victory in the Alberta Derby here.

For the last two years Birley has been riding almost exclusively in eastern Canada.

Richard As Jockey Makes Big Change In Fox Cub's Odds

LONDON, May 23.—The Earl of Rosebery's Blue Peter continued to rule 7/2 to 2/9 favorite for the Derby at Epsom Wednesday in last night's callover of odds at the Victoria Club.

Feature of the betting was the sudden shortening of Fox Cub's odds to 21 to 2 which made him third favorite and which was attributed by many to the magic name of his jockey, Gordon Richard, the perennial wizard of the English turf. Fox Cub was only fancied at 100 to 7 in the last callover.

Other odds: Hellpolis, 13 to 1; Triguero and Admiral's Walk, 15 to 1; Dhoti, 100 to 6; Fairzone, 16 to 1; Casanova, 19 to 1; Romeo II, 27 to 2; Hastings and Buxton, 28 to 1; Esperian, 33 to 1; Alout Maitre, Salford II and Wheatland, 50 to 1; Bellman, Major Brackey, Mauna Kea, Rogerstone Castle, King Legend and Fairfax, 66 to 1; Fair Chance, 80 to 1; others 100 to 1.

Packy Paul Scores Technical Kayo

LONDON, May 23—Packy Paul last night administered a technical knockout to Johnny Bartlett of London in the fourth round of a scheduled eight round boxing match at Blackfriars ring.

Packy's brother, Danny, however, was technically knocked out in the fourth round of an eight rounder by Tommy Windsor of Deptford.

He was enjoying himself, I'm convinced of that. He told me two or three times how he was looking forward to his visit to the States and his interest in our people."

Roper said he would be surprised if the American people "let the King and Queen get away at the time they are scheduled to leave."

HOME-RUN SIEGE STOPS ATHLETICS' WIN STREAK

Believe It Or Not — — — By Robt. Ripley

EXPLANATION OF TODAY'S CARTOON

THE RESURRECTED DERELICT: The iron ship "Avenger" was stranded at Chandeleur Island, in the Gulf of Mexico in 1904, being washed ashore by a tidal wave, which left it high and dry inland. For 12 years she lay exposed to wind and sun, a derelict on dry land, until an obliging tidal wave caused by a hurricane floated her back to sea on July 15, 1916. She was immediately put back into service by the same shipping firm which had her under charter at the time she was stranded in 1904. But in 1916 the charterers paid for her 4½ times as much as they agreed in 1904, ordering the ship on the same voyage that was interrupted by her stranding 12 years before. They rechristened her the "John H. Kirby." She was torpedoed on the coast of South Africa on December 4, 1917.

THE SOLITARY SURVIVOR: A general was the only Paraguayan officer who survived the war which Paraguay carried on against Argentine, Brazil and Uruguay (1864-1870). Out of a main population of 300,000, Paraguay put 100,000 soldiers in the field. Out of 30,000 officers of the Paraguayan army, thousands were killed on the battlefield, a few were captured, the others were gradually exterminated by the Paraguayan Dictator Lopez. At the end of the war, only one officer survived and he was General Bernardino Caballero, who was elected President of Paraguay 1880-1885.

THE BRITTLE STAR: The fragile variety of star fish known as the brittle star, sheds its five arms when alarmed, apparently with out injury to itself. A few weeks after ward, the creature again has all its arms, since it has the capacity for growing new ones.

SCOTT LOSES OPENING TILT IN GOLF PLAY

Former Champion Beaten As British Amateur Meet Opens

HOYLAKE, Eng., May 23.—One upset—the defeat of Hon. Michael Scott who won the title here in 1933—marked opening play as the first round of the 1939 British amateur golf championship was contested Monday over the Royal Liverpool course.

While Scott was finding his 01 years a bit of a burden to carry over Hoylake's vast distances, bowing to Tom Haliburton of Wales 2-1, the defending titleholder, Charlie Yates of Atlanta, Ga., discovered the combination he needed in a spot of sunlight and a $1 putter to overcome his practice slump and defeat Bruce Thompson, local bond salesman, 5 and 4.

SHORTEN COURSE

To complaints of the field that the course was too long, the committee responded by moving in the tees to reduce the yardage of three of the back nine holes.

Probably the best golf of the round was played by two Scots Sam McKinlay who writes editorials for a Glasgow paper, and Hector Thomson, 1936 champion who possibly is the finest amateur in this country. McKinlay was out in 34, two under par, to beat Stanley Anderson 7 and 5, and Thomson covered the par all the way in beating D. B. D. Field 4 and 3.

TODAY'S FEATURE

Nineteen-year-old Jim Bruen, the Irishman who is co-favorite with Yates at 12 to 1, plays today's most important match when he tangles with Len Crawley, former Walker Cup player, Tuesday, 1931 champion, defeated C. Boulton, 5 and 4, yesterday while Bruen advanced when his opponent defaulted.

After Title Again

Out after his second straight British amateur golf championship is Charley Yates, above, personable young man from Georgia, whose win last year was so popular. Charley has a hard task on his hands and should he turn the trick gain he will be only the fourth person to have done so, the last one being another American, Lawson Little, in 1934 and 1935. Yates' opponent in the first round, Bruce Thompson, was beaten 5 and 4 by the champion yesterday.

Baer, Braddock Feud Rather Serious and Silly

By HENRY McLEMORE
Special Bulletin Sport Writer

NEW YORK, May 23.—Even if Mr. Chamberlain and his umbrella have to be pressed into service, those two weary plodders of the come-back trail, Maxie Baer and Jimmy Braddock, must be appeased before their feud develops into a fight.

Right now Baer and Braddock are digging deep into their almost limitless supply of unsavory epithets and hurling same at one another with an abandon neither ever showed with his fists.

Tomorrow, where Baer is training for his fight with Lou Nova, visitors stuck close to their cars less they be struck by a flying "Bum!" or a richocheting "Rat!" and in his mountain fastness Braddock is tinting the hills a deeper blue with the choice of words he uses in reply to Baer.

FIGHT IS LIKELY

Everyone is desperately afraid that these harsh words will lead to something more and that Baer and Braddock in a fit of madness, will start fighting. This must not be allowed to happen. This country suffered through one fight between Maxie and Jimmy, and while that was four full years ago, it has not sufficiently recovered to undergo another. There have been worse fights, perhaps, but no one has ever been bold enough to step forward and claim he saw one of them.

For fifteen rounds Maxie and Jimmy went through a routine that was a cross between a Viennese waltz without music and two elderly butterfly collectors gathering specimens. Not a blow of sufficient force to bruise a spider's head was struck.

The feud between Maxie and Jimmy is a rather silly thing. It started when Braddock voluntarily joined Nova's camp for the purpose of acquainting the California youngster with Baer's style. Baer brandied this as unfair, why I don't know. Certainly his style of fighting, if it can be called that, is no secret. It has been used in bar rooms and on street corners since the invention of alcoholic spirits and highway intersections. Maxie fights exactly as the first cave man would have fought. He employs about as much deceit as there is in a wooden leg.

GOOD FRONT RUNNER

If Braddock had not volunteered to point out Baer's tactics to Nova the Californian would have gained the same information by locking himself in a phone booth and slamming and butting his way out. Because that is the way Baer fights. That is, when his opponent is a man he doesn't fear. Put him in there against a fellow he knows can knock his head off with a punch (Louis, for example) and his style is reminiscent of a turtle. He crawls in the shell formed by his arms and shoulders and making few if any aggressive gestures, waits for the worst to happen.

But he isn't afraid of Nova. He considers him a young punk and knows he can't hit very hard. As a result, he will charge into Lou. And that's why Baer, time to you, some too spry, stands a good chance to win. He's a heller when he isn't afraid, and not timid about throwing that cobblestone that serves him for a right hand.

Spotlighting the Sport Girl

This column has received a letter with considerable complaint therein from a young lady much interested in young folks in community league sport in the city. He seems quite perturbed over efforts of persons unknown to the league work raiding their athletes for apparently commercial purposes.

We sympathize greatly with the writer, but remain in doubt as to just what can be done about it. We read of professional hockey, the baseball methods of scouting around the world for players, and long complaints made by the so-called amateur clubs. They also seem helpless after years of struggle to avoid this raiding and railroading, to use one of the terms in the letter.

Personally, we think that actual credit belongs to he or she who patiently teaches the groundwork rather than those who prune their feathers over the so-called finishing touches, for the money standpoint. Our memory serves far more of our patient primary teacher who formed the groundwork (consider the subject) rather than the high school or college folks who superciliously ordered us to memorize so many pages out of a book.

So, Mr. Man, will you kindly not become discouraged in your efforts for the younger folks, and perhaps find a slight solace that you have been doing a part for their happiness and health. Maybe a little consolation in the old adage of allowing a little more rope, and perhaps that adaged day will come.

Stella Walsh, the Cleveland basketball player of last year, who will soon be leaving for her native land, Poland, where she will enter the Polish women team in the Polish world's games, and remain to represent Poland in the Olympics. She is stated to be the fastest amateur runner in the world. This decision of hers will allow one more American girl a chance to make the Finland trip to fill a vacancy which most authorities thought Stella had intended to ask for.

And a Toronto young lady has been suspended from all official sports doings because she overlooked a months time in stating her age qualification in an Ontario junior entry in the Dominion meet of last summer. When records as to her birth were checked at the Ontario government headquarters it was found out that she was an Ontario senior.

One of our boy friends, (yes, we have one or two friends) asked us to accompany him over to the football practice at Clarke Stadium last Monday, and we discovered a number of girls at track and field practice all the same hours, though in another section of the grounds. Coach Ernie Williams stated that there would probably be at least a dozen of the girls in the May 24th games. Gwenne Swingle will be on hand to carry on her work as holder of the junior aggregate trophy of the provincial meet of last year. Also Frances Frazer, who holds the intermediate trophy. These seemed to be several other good prospects at the practice.

We mentioned some months ago as to the trip of the English cricket girls making a tour of Canada this summer. Will anyone locally kindly write us about these college girls, if they have any information? Harrow-gate and Roedean ladies' colleges.

Noting the amount of roller skating around the streets and walks, one wonders how soon a second Sunnydale pavilion will remain in embryo. Recall the old dance hall on second street, then for skating, for some months used for basketball and finally Social Credit meeting place, and since then suspected of being the aim of youthful firebugs on at least two occasions?

And now the old Boyle Street baseball grounds are to change because of the cornmeal bleachers which have been for some months the apparent spiteful object of unknown hoodlums. My relatives oft recite on the girls games they used to enjoy on those grounds.

The Toronto team which angled a trip to New York City and the World's Fair over last week-end, played the Roverette girls. The Toronto girls won one game and lost the other, each with the score 3-1. So honors may be evenly claimed, though the Toronto pitcher of the second game, a borrowed one, did fairly well in every inning when she walked five of her opponents. Other teams of Toronto and Montreal are planning for like trips. The two games were witnessed by a total of 19,000 spectators.

And as to the Winnipeg girls, word comes from New York City that these western girls will have to show a little more of their mettal before the requested expense money is forwarded. We wonder how soon, if not already, an application will be forthcoming from some Edmonton team?

And the Montreal softball girls are striving to go the other Canadian teams one better by an offer to travel to England and play in several cities there. These eastern teams have annexed several western players for this season. Winnipeg, Moose Jaw, Regina, Vancouver and Nelson names appear in print. Suggest that our own "Peanuts" and "Babe" make an inquiry. How about the summer in the east?

Winding up on softball, we stated in an item last fall, that Freda Savonna of the Canleu girls basketball team a guest member of a Boyle Street game, seemed to be about the best softball player we had noted. Now comes Lowell Thomas' book entitled "Softball—So What!" in which he mentions her as the most spectacular woman player of the softball sport.

Kenora Beats Elks As Series Opens

WINNIPEG, May 23.—Hockey in May was introduced to Winnipeg fans last night as junior teams started a series of exhibition games on the Amphitheatre rink's artificial ice as part of the royal welcome week program. A crowd of less than 1,000 saw Kenora Thistles beat Brandon Elks, western finalists, 4-3.

The round-robin series will continue all week with Portage La Prairie and Winnipeg Monarchs also competing.

Mazzera, Clift Hit Homers For Browns

PHILADELPHIA, May 23.—The Athletics' four-game American League baseball winning streak was cracked Monday by the home-run bats of Mel Mazzera and Harland Clift, which gave St. Louis Browns a 6-3 victory.

Mazzera's circuit clout in the fourth inning broke a 2-2 tie. With two down in the fifth and one on, Clift blasted a round-tripper to score the winning runs.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

ST. LOUIS, May 23.—Morton Cooper, young St. Louis Cardinal right hander, held Philadelphia Phillies to four hits, three of them doubles by Hershel Martin, to turn in a 2-1 victory Monday and maintain the Redbirds' slim lead over Cincinnati in the National Baseball League race.

"FAREWELL to SPORT" by PAUL GALLICO

This Game Called Hockey

CHAPTER XXIII

THE WORLD is full of a number of minor sports which have their devotees as either spectators or active participants and therefore deserve to be mentioned. A sports-writer runs across them all at one time or another, if only when he opens his mail and plucks forth a letter from Indignant Subscriber wanting to know why more space in the paper is not devoted to curling, or pocket billiards.

A partial list of this small fry includes hockey, ice and field, ice-skating, speed as well as figure, basketball, fencing, skiing, polo, fishing, handball, soccer football, rugby football, canoeing, bowling, billiards, badminton, table tennis, better known as ping-pong, sailing, lacrosse, water polo, rodeos, rowing, shooting, squash in all forms, trap shooting, and weight-lifting.

There will be bitter complaint at my listing ice hockey as a minor sport, since as a professional game organized into leagues in the manner of baseball and English football it entertains hundreds of thousands of people, but my categorizing is purely arbitrary; it has never managed to excite me. The game has the thrill of hard body contact the beauty of speed and lovely, fluid movement, and the excitement of a more than occasional brawl, riot, or first fight on the ice, but it lacks variety.

ALWAYS THE SAME

There is only one way of scoring, which is to drive the puck into the net, and the rules have given the balance of power to the team that elects to play defensively. Also, because it is an artificial game, the action is too frequently stopped by officials enforcing rules, and rules the infractions of which are not apparent to any but the most expert in the audience.

I have always suspected that the real appeal of hockey, and the reason for its immediate success when introduced from Canada to America, can be found in the fact that it is a fast, body-contact game played by men with clubs in their hands and knives lashed to their feet, since the skates are razor-sharp, and before evening is over it is almost a certainty that someone will be hurt and will need help in getting a generous contribution of gore before he is led away to be hemstitched together again. There is also an excellent chance of a free-for-all before an evening's exhibition is over, involving all the players of both teams and often including spectators as well as players, all swinging clubs, hockey sticks, and fists in merry riot. Canisakeross and short-tempered hockey-players are considered a great draw. The audience accepts them as villains in the same manner that they do the heavy, or menace, in wrestling, hisses and boos them, but flocks to the arenas when they come to town because they usually start something.

TOO APROPOS

Some of these brawls are legitimate, as there are any number of deliberately vicious methods of infliction as well as audience that one hockey-player can pay another with his skate or the butt end of his stick, and the successions of brutish shocks sustained during the evening has an accumulative effect upon one lowering of the threesmid of acrimony. But occasionally when attendance at the games has fallen off some of these lovely little riots have happened too apropos to look natural. And while the wagers of hockey teams raise their hands in holy horror at these melees, I have always suspected them upon occasion of tipping the boys that a little scuffling wouldn't hurt the box office any and might even do it some good.

I love a good fight, but why call it hockey? Why not arm two groups of men with lethal weapons and turn them loose? I feel there is just a faint hypocritical note in the public's love for ice hockey per se. Make it impossible for the players to injure one another or fight and see how long the game would last. I realize that I am in the absolute minority in not being stirred by ice hockey, but after all what is the good of saying good-by if you don't speak out your mind? As long as I was working for a paper I could whoop up as much enthusiasm for hockey as the next guy. That many customers must be right. Certainly I am a good deal of a hypocrite myself. That is what always makes me so mad when I find the same trait in others.

YOUTH

Youth is that feeling just after you inherit a lot of money.

A young man is full of fire. But an old man often forgets to bring any matches.

A young man's blood is rich and red like wine, but as he gets older it becomes weak and watery like thin soup. Tossing a lot of vegetables into him won't thicken it either.

Youth is the early morning of life. A few minutes of it and you wish you were back asleep again. Released by Consolidated News Features Inc.

Let Gracious Phrases Win Friends for You

Know What to Say at All Times

No wonder Beth wins more attention than other girls. She seems always to know the apt, gracious things to say.

In a jiffy she puts shy Bob at ease, says, "A glass of lemonade just fills the bill this balmy spring evening!" Another girl would have dully murmured, "Thanks."

But it's easy to charm in any situation by stocking up on smooth phrases. A new friend drops in? Say, "What an unexpected pleasure!" In parting, "It's too bad you have to leave so soon."

Accept an invitation enthusiastically with "There's nothing I'd rather do." Or when you must refuse, say, "What a shame—I've already planned something else."

Walking into a business office you appear confident, poised with "Please tell Mr. Hatton I am here. I have an appointment."

And make your talk sparkle with bright new ways of saying things, "as different as chalk from cheese," "plentiful as blackberries."

Learn to say the right thing at the right moment! Our new 32-page booklet, Effective Phrases for All Occasions, gives lively word combinations to brighten your talk, winning phrases for many everyday social, business occasions.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of Effective Phrases for all Occasions to The Edmonton Bulletin, Home Service, Edmonton, Alberta. Be sure to write plainly you name, address, and the name of booklet.

400 FIRST AID EXPERTS GIVEN ROYAL ORDERS

Four hundred people qualified to render first aid treatment gathered at the Prince of Wales Armories Monday night to receive instructions about the work they will do on June 2 during the Royal Progress.

Dr. H. K. Groff, chairman of the sub-committee dealing with first aid, announced that another meeting will be held in the armories on Sunday afternoon.

Main first aid station will be at the airport, with other dressing stations located at Portage avenue and 101 street, on the legislature grounds and King Edward school.

Eighteen bell tent stations will be located on Portage Avenue, Whyte Avenue, on 109 street in the middle of the bleachers near the legislature buildings, on 88 avenue and 109 street, and in the middle of the bleachers on 112 street.

In addition, there will be three stations at drug stores, of which the location of two has already been determined, these being at Elliot and Jasper and 109 street and Jasper.

Eight attendants will likely be on duty at each of the bell tent stations, while there will be a doctor, nurse and eight attendants at the main dressing stations.

Council Votes Grant Of $150 To Child Camp

Grant of $150 was voted by city council Monday night to the Better Health Camp Council in support of its 1939 summer camp at Lac Ste. Anne for under-privileged children.

Mrs. C. M. King, president of the group, told council that last year 38 undernourished children, picked by the school nurses, had been given a month in camp and all had gained weight, through proper feeding, exercise and outdoor life.

The work had been commended by Dr. G. M. Little, city medical officer of health, Mrs. King said.

"Before and after" photographs of the children, shown to the aldermen, appeared to influence the vote in favor of the grant. There are some 1,700 undernourished children in the schools, Mrs. King said.

CITY HOPES FOR FINER WEATHER VICTORIA DAY

Prospects for fine weather on Empire Day were rather gloomy Tuesday morning as skies showed no signs of clearing and the local forecast promised cool weather with probable rain. A light drizzle was falling around 8 and 9 a.m., but citizens are still hoping the sun will break through for May 24 celebrations.

While only a trace of moisture fell in the city Monday, southern Alberta was being deluged as heavy rains washed that section of the province.

Crops in all parts of the province are sprouting and the first hazard in all districts is rid as a result of the week's heavy spells.

Local temperatures rose to a high of 81 above Monday and sank to a minimum reading of 45 above during the early hours of Tuesday.

No rain fell in the near north overnight but skies there are reported as generally overcast.

Athletic Ground To Get Building For Pari-Mutuel

South Side Athletic Park will get a pari-mutuel betting building for July 1 horse races, city council decided Monday night, voting $475 for the structure. The construction will be such that the building will be suitable for use of other sports events, such as cricket matches.

The city council also voted to guarantee the South Edmonton Business Men's Association to the extent of $500 against loss on its July 1 sports this year. The city originally had budgeted $200 for this purpose.

Spokesmen for the South Edmonton group, J. A. Young and Jimmy Smith told council that during the last five years the city had only been called on for $20 of its guarantees but they needed insurance against rain.

Ottawa Sending Colors To City For Royal Visit

With the exception of Ottawa, Edmonton is the only city in Canada in which seven royal standards and colors of the Canadian Corps, Canadian Legion pilgrimage members unveiling the Vimy Ridge memorial in France in 1937, will be displayed. The colors were loaned at Ottawa Sunday when the national memorial was dedicated by His Majesty the King. They were sent direct to Edmonton following the ceremonies. They will be carried by the Canadian Legion colors party when Their Majesties arrive at the C.N.R. station, and later will be massed in front of the Cenotaph which Their Majesties will face at the procession. The colors will be used in connection with the Alberta branch Canadian Legion Jubilee parade to be held here May 31 to June 3, and will then be returned to Ottawa.

PIPERS PLAY FAREWELL TO PAT'S CHIEF

Nearly 40 men who saw service with the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry in France during the Great War gathered in the Macdonald hotel Monday evening to attend a banquet in honor of the regiment's founder, Lt.-Col. A. Hamilton Gault.

He was piped in to dinner. When the banquet was over he and his wife were piped down to the station, and onto the train, and as the train pulled out, Pipe Major Henry Laing and Piper J. M. Robertson piped "Blue Bonnets Over the Border".

The men sang the old songs, recalled the old days and old adventures, and gave toasts and paid tributes until Col. Gault, saying farewell, remarked: "You have given Mrs. Gault and myself a wonderful welcome here in Edmonton."

Toast to the regiment and Princess Patricia was offered by P. W. Johnson, who spoke of the colors, woven by the Princess herself, which were carried by the regiment into the battle line. Rev. Capt. G. G. Reynolds paid high tribute to the work Col. Gault had done in founding the regiment and serving with it. Lt.-Col. Louis Scott presided at the dinner.

Through The Mill

Suspended sentence of 12 months was given a man charged with retaining possession of a pipe die and cutter stolen from a Rabbit Hill coal mine when he appeared in city police court Tuesday.

• • •

Vagrancy convictions resulted in one man being sentenced to 60 days in jail, while a second accused will spend the next three months behind the bars.

• • •

In a separate courtroom presided over by Magistrate L. R. Jackson, a Ranfurly district woman pleaded guilty to two charges of concealment of birth, and a third charge of sexual immorality in the presence of children. She was sentenced to six months in jail on each charge, the terms to run concurrently.

RYAN BROTHERS RUSHING WORK NORTH PORTAGE

FORT SMITH, N.W.T., May 23.—With the channel of the Slave River at Fort Chipewyan piled full with ice, which shows no sign of moving at the present time, several of the early boats into the north are held up at that point, which will mean considerable activity on the Fitzgerald-Smith portage once the ice goes out.

In dictions are that three boats will arrive at Fitzgerald together, and M. L. "Mickey" Ryan of Ryan Bros. is busy getting the portage in shape and his tractors and trucks on the road in order to cope with the situation. With only a short season available it is imperative that there be no tie-up in the movement of freight into the Arctic and far north posts and missions, and Ryan Bros. will be working night and day to keep the freight moving once it arrives at Fitzgerald. Their record in the past has been such that no fears are felt for the present situation as they have always managed to get the freight over the 16 mile portage without delaying the boats on the lower end of the river.

WINGS NORTH

A new, twin-motored Fleet Freighter for use in north service out of Edmonton is on its way to Edmonton, W. R. "Wop" May, divisional superintendent of Canadian Airways, reported here Tuesday.

• • •

The new machine, which has a payload of more than a ton, is powered with two 330 horsepower improved Jacobs motors and will cruise at about 145 miles per hour on floats. It has been specially designed for "bush" service. The machine will be used for freighting by Canadian Airways in the Yellowknife district, "Wop" said.

Rudy Heuss arrived in from Yellowknife with a C.A.L. plane and two passengers Monday. Mert Wales was northbound Tuesday with four passengers.

GARDEN GOES AS GOLD URGE GRIPS MINER

GOLDFIELDS, Sask., May 23.—Anton Slavdal, an employee of the C.M. and S. mine at Goldfields is looking for the man that stole his garden. The garden which is situated a considerable distance from his home has completely disappeared. Mr. Stavdal discovered the loss recently when he went to put in his garden and found only hard pan and rocks.

Soil is scarce in the mining camp and some miner evidently decided that the rich dark loom in Slavdal's garden was too great a temptation to resist in his search for precious metal. Other gardeners are enjoying better success with gardens that are already above ground.

Thursday will make another "down river" flight for M.A.S. Al Brown is at Yellowknife and Archie Vanbee at Peace River.
